GAMBLERS AND CROOKED PLAYERS 'DOUBLE-CROSSED' EACH OTHER

Players, After Not Getting Promised Money, Decided to Play to Win, Burns, the State's Star Witness Says in Baseball Trial at Chicago.

FORMER ST. LOUIS PLAYER NAMED

Joe Gedeon Present When St. Louis Man Made Offer to Players to Throw Game, the Witness Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The Chicago White Sox players, after agreeing with a clique of gamblers to throw the 1919 world's series to Cincinnati for $100,000, became sick on the deal when they were not paid the bribes promised and at a meeting before the third game decided to play their best and win the series, Bill Burns, accomplice in the alleged deal and the State's star witness, testified today in the baseball trial.

Urged by the alleged "fixers" to win the third game to improve the betting odds, the players said they had lost for two regulars—Cicotte and Williams—and would not win for a "busher," Dick Kerr, Burns said. Then, feeling they had been crossed by the gamblers, they double-crossed their bribers by telling them they would lose the third game, but instead won it, 3 to 0, with Dick Kerr pitching.

Reference to Risberg.

Attempts of the State to have Burns tell of a conversation with Eddie Cicotte in New York where the State claims the alleged conspiracy was formed, failed when Judge Friend sustained a defense objection.

Swede Risberg, the White Sox shortstop, agreed to "go through" with the game throwing, Burns testified. Repeated attempts to persuade the players to throw the rest of the games failed, and Burns then gave up his efforts to bribe the players again, he said.

Burns himself was double-crossed out of his share of the spoils by 'Chick' Gandil, who refused to pay him, the witness testified, adding that he told Gandil that he would "squawk" and expose the whole deal.

Burns related further details of meetings in Cincinnati hotels, at which he said the gamblers and players discussed throwing the games.

Abe Attell, former prize fighter, and Bennett, the latter identified by Burns yesterday as David Zelser of Des Moines, Ia., a defendant, were the leaders of the alleged gamblers and "Chick" Gandil headed the players, according to Burns.

Burns said Attell refused to pay the $20,000 promised the players after each game. He persuaded Attell to give him $10,000 after the second game, which was given to Gandill, he said.

Offer by St. Louis Man.

A St. Louis man volunteered to put up $10,000 to have the fourth and fifth games thrown, but the players turned him down, Burns said. He did not know the man's name, but said Joe Gedeon of the St. Louis Americans, who was released after the grand jury inquiry, was present at the time the proposition was made.

Burns then told how he conferred with Ban Johnson, president of the American League, and John Tyrrell, assistant State's Attorney, about the case. He said he came here voluntarily to testify and had received no promises or compensation other than his expenses, which were paid by Johnson. Burns then was turned over to the defense for cross-examination.

Says Attell Offered $45,000.

"Attell said he bet $10,000 or $20,000 on the third game and lost. He said he would give $45,000 to have the next two games thrown, but wanted to bet it, paying the players $20,000 after the fourth game and $25,000 after the fifth.

"What did you do?" "I went to the Warner Hotel to see the players about 10 p. m." "Who was there?" "Gandil. He said he was through with the deal and wouldn't talk about it. He said they were out to win the rest of the series. Then I saw Risberg and McMullin. They said the players met before the third game and decided to go out to win." "What else did they say?" "They said they had been double-crossed. Risberg said he would go through and throw the games. I said I would see they were paid." "Who did you see then?" "Attell—the

GOV. SMALL INDICTED IN STATE TREASURY CASE

Embezzlement, Conspiracy and Operation of Confidence Game Charged Against Illinois Executive.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 20.—Gov. Small and Lieutenant-Governor Sterling and Vernon Curtis were indicted today by the grand jury investigating the State Treasury.

The indictment charged embezzlement, conspiracy and operation of a confidence game. They were returned by the Sangamon County grand jury at 3:05 p. m.

The indictment resulted from the loan of $10,000,000 of State funds through the agency of a bank which Attorney-General Brundage, leader in the investigation, claimed never existed except on paper. The State received 2 per cent interest on the funds and the loan was secured by paper from the Chicago packing houses bearing 7 per cent interest, it is alleged.

Bonds of all three were fixed at $50,000 on each count. On the first indictment the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Curtis were charged with embezzlement of $700,000.

The indictment for conspiracy and confidence games charges that the three obtained "divers drafts, warrants, vouchers and documents to the amount of $2,000,000.

The Curtis mentioned in the indictments is said to be the son of the late Senator Curtis, former political colleague of Gov. Small and owner of the charter of the "Grant Park State Bank," the agency used in making the $10,000,000 loan to the packing companies.

Lieutenant-Governor Sterling succeeded Gov. Small in office as State Treasurer. The revelations bringing about the present situation were made by State Treasurer Miller when he took over Sterling's accounts. It was said that a memorandum was on file in the Treasurer's office indicating the $10,000,000 loan and that Miller considered this unacceptable and turned the affair over to the Attorney-General.

DENTIST'S WIFE IDENTIFIES HEADLESS BODY AS HUSBAND'S

Mrs. R. M. Brumfield Makes Definite Statement at Inquest; Also Identifies Personal Effects.

By the Associated Press.

ROSEBURG, Ore., July 20.—Mrs. R. M. Brumfield yesterday was a witness before the Coroner's jury trying to decide the identity of a headless body found beneath the burned auto of her missing husband, a dentist.

Mrs. Brumfield declared the body was that of her husband and not Dennis Russell, a laborer. Authorities have expressed the theory that Russell was murdered and left to be identified as Dr. Brumfield in order that insurance carried by the dentist could be collected.

Mrs. Brumfield identified a ring found on the body. A watch and chain, a burned portion of a necktie, scarf pin, leather key case and a knife found in the wreckage also were identified as belonging to her husband.

$1,189,000 SAID TO BE TOTAL SHORTAGE OF MINNESOTA MAN

Figures Come From Chicago, Where Creditors of Packing Concern Are in Conference.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Minn., July 20.—The actual shortage in the accounts of R. J. Thomson, former comptroller of George A. Hormel & Co., local packers, is $1,189,000, according to official figures received here today from Chicago, where creditors of the concern are in conference.

CHICAGO, July 20.—A. Anderson and E. E. Brown, vice presidents of the First National Bank of Chicago, this afternoon denied that any statement announcing the total shortage of R. J. Thomson, former controller of George A. Hormel & Co., Austin, Minn., packers, at $1,189,000, had been issued from a conference of bankers and creditors of the company at the Chicago bank.

10 CENTS FOR ICE CREAM SODA

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The cost of production of ice cream soda is 7½ cents a glass, a prominent pharmacy stated today, in announcing that it could make a reasonable profit by charging the customer 10 cents. The cost is divided as follows: Syrup 1c; milk 1c; ice cream 2c; labor, breakage, waste, etc., 3½c.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—"Tear gas" bombs that will reduce mobs and criminals to a state of tearful helplessness were effectively demonstrated to the Philadelphia Police Department yesterday when 200 of its most stalwart men were stopped by five bombers.

Maj. Stephen J. Delaney, formerly of the United States Chemical Warfare Service, inventor of the bomb, arranged the demonstration to show how a small number of men could disperse a mob, or how his missiles could check the activities of robbers.

Advised that the gas was harmless, the 200 came rushing across the demonstration field. They held on bravely until they reached a plot of ground marked out as a street intersection. Here five bombers hurled about 25 of their weapons in front of the "mob," which was promptly dissolved in tears. Also there was much choking and gasping for breath, as "tear gas" is not conducive to deep and regular breathing.

Three times the charge of the 200 was repeated and three times it ended in the same way.

After a reasonable degree of decorum had been restored, Maj. Delaney and a member of the traffic squad climbed into an automobile for the bandit chase test. Speeding across the field, they were pursued by a side-car motor cycle. The man in the side-car threw three bombs, two of which missed, but the third brought the machine to a quick stop when it landed in the tonneau.

A deserted house on the field was then occupied by "desperate criminals" holding the fort against the police, but a few bombs thrown through the windows brought them out to weep on the shoulders of the besiegers.

HEARING ON THE RENT BILLS

Senate Committee Adjourns Without Acting on the Measures.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—The Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence today gave representatives of the St. Louis Rent Relief League a public hearing on the two bills to curb rent profiteering sent to the Legislature by the league and which have been passed by the House.

After a short executive session the committee adjourned without acting on the bills, with the announcement that another executive session will be held on the measures at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

INTERVENTION BY U. S. IN SILESIA IS SUGGESTED

It Is Stated in London That It Is Feared the Situation in District Threatens Open Hostilities.

REINFORCEMENTS IN AREA DEMANDED

Allied Commissioners in Upper Silesia Make Request; Britain Said to Oppose Sending More Men.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20.—It was stated in authoritative quarters today that informal suggestions have been made for American intervention in the Upper Silesian trouble, which it is feared will threaten open hostilities.

The American Government's policy with respect to the Silesian and similar disputes concerning the fixation of boundaries, it is pointed out, has been one of nonintervention unless the situation was held to be such as to threaten an outbreak of hostilities. It is understood now that representations are being made from certain quarters interested in the Silesian situation that such a break is an immediate possibility.

Demand Made for More Allied Troops in Upper Silesia.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 20.—The British, Italian and French Commissioners in Upper Silesia have sent in a report in which they jointly demand that reinforcements be sent to the allied troops of occupation, it was announced here this afternoon.

This recommendation came almost simultaneously with the receipt of a note by the French Foreign Office from the British Government in which Great Britain insisted there was no necessity for sending more troops into Upper Silesia. The note was in reply to the recent communication in which the French Government notified Great Britain that reinforcements for the allied troops of occupation were needed urgently in order to make sure that the troops were not disturbed and to insure respect for the decisions of the allies under the treaty of Versailles.

The British note reiterated the demand of that Government for the early convening of the Allied Supreme Council. In view of the insistence of the British Prime Minister, Lloyd George, it is probable that Premier Briand will agree to a meeting of the council in the neighborhood of July 27, probably in Boulogne. Because of the report of the commissioners in Upper Silesia respecting the need for more troops there, however, it is regarded improbable that M. Briand will yield on that question. If Great Britain refuses to join, France probably will send troops independently.

M. Briand has not yet replied to the British note, and it is likely he will make known his final decision regarding the convening of the Supreme Council this afternoon. The council, besides dealing with the Silesian question, probably will be occupied principally with the question of maintaining of penalties against Germany, continued occupation of Duesseldorf, Duisburg, and Ruhort, and a few details concerning execution of the Versailles treaty.

STANDARD OIL TO BE ACCUSED OF CONTROLLING NEW YORK GAS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Disclosures intended to show the Standard Oil Co. is the hidden power in the gas industry of New York and that it fixes the price to the consumers, reaping tremendous profit therefrom, are scheduled by Assistant Corporation Counsel Fertig. This is part of an effort by Fertig to block the attempt of the New York & Queens Gas Co. to increase its rate from $1.25 per thousand feet, plus an arbitrary 60 cents a month service charge, to $1.60 per thousand feet, plus an arbitrary 75 cents service charge.

Before the Public Service Commission, Fertig will reveal what are said to be facts and figures in support of a charge that by interlocking directorates and stock ownerships, the Standard Oil Co. not only dominates the gas business here, but also is a powerful, if not the controlling factor in all of the major public utilities of the city.

JIM BARNES LEADS FIELD WITH 69 IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

DUNCAN MAKES 72, BOBBY JONES 77

Golfers Playing in Second Qualifying Round Prior to 72-Hole Championship Play.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Jim Barnes of Pelham, N. Y., formerly of St. Louis, set a new competitive record for the course of the Columbia Country Club here today and led the morning field in the second half of the qualifying play for the open championship of the United States, with 69. Barnes played with George Duncan of England, British open champion of last year. Duncan had a 72. Score:

Barnes—Out	435	454	484	—36
In	454	344	243	—33—69
Duncan—Out	534	553	445	—38
In	344	344	345	—34—72

The British entrant putted very badly.

He missed three-foot putts on the fourteenth, fifteenth and seventeenth holes, on all of which he would have made threes had he made the putts. He also took three putts on the eighteenth green.

Duncan Gets Birdie Three.

Duncan got a birdie three on the tenth hole as a result of a very fine iron shot dead to the pin. Barnes' second shot to the eighteenth hole brought up within eight feet of the pin and he ran down the putt to establish the new competitive record for the course.

Michael J. Brady of Oakland Hill, Detroit, turned in the second lowest card of the day. His score was 70. Brady's partner, John G. Anderson of New York, had 77.

A large gallery followed Amateur Chick Evans of the Edgewater Club, Chicago, and Charles R. Murray, the Canadian professional, from Montreal. Both had long drives from the tee, Murray's ball lying a trifle farther out and in better position for the second shot.

Robert T. Jones Jr., who Sunday made the course in 68, a new record, reached the turn in the 18-hole qualifying round today in 39. His partner, Leo Diegel, had a 40. Jones played the first and ninth holes badly, these holes being the only weak spot on a card of consistent golf.

Both Diegel and Jones played better on their inward trip. Diegel got a 37 for a total of 77. Jones finished with a 38 and a card of 77.

DISARMAMENT MOVE BRINGING UP MANY BIG ISSUES

MORE EXCHANGES WITH TOKIO LIKELY

Arrangement Tentatively Made for Lloyd George to Attend Washington Meeting, It Is Announced.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—President Harding's move for a disarmament conference is assuming far greater magnitude in world affairs than first indications disclosed.

As the preliminary negotiations proceed they are revealing all sorts of unexpected diplomatic ramifications and leading into fields which in the beginning had seemed far removed from the purpose of the conference. But officials here apparently are thoroughly confident that the widespread effect of the President's proposal will in the end only prove an aid in accomplishing the frank exchange of ideas for which the conference was called.

Reports From Japan.

One of the principal side issues now occupying the attention of the American Government is the disposition of Japan to hold out for an exact definition in advance of the subjects to be considered by the assembled Powers. The attitude of officials here is that to thresh out that question now not only would delay the conference but might also branch into a discussion of the merits of the disputed subjects themselves. It is felt that the program for the conference could be best arranged by the conference itself or, failing that, at least by negotiation after each of the invited Powers has sent in an unconditional acceptance.

News dispatches from Tokio reporting that Japan might raise such question as racial equality and abolition of extraterritorial rights in China were read with manifest interest here, but no official would comment. There was an apparent feeling of satisfaction over other unofficial advices seeming to indicate that the Tokio Government proposed to clean the slate of some of the troublesome Far Eastern problems by moving toward a settlement of such questions as Shantung and the occupation of Siberia.

Harding Considering Personnel.

It developed yesterday that the explanation given Japan by the State Department relative to the scope of the conference was eminently informal and that department officials apparently hoped to be able to reach an understanding without a further exchange of formal notes. The information desired by Tokio is understood to have been given the Japanese Ambassador during an informal conversation with Secretary Hughes, and it is assumed that further exchanges of a similar nature will take place here or in the Japanese capital, before the stage of formal reply is reached.

While these preliminaries are in progress President Harding is understood to be giving some attention to the personnel of the commission that is to represent the United States in the conference.

It is indicated today that although no actual choice probably will be made for a month or more, the President definitely had decided that the Senate, because of its joint responsibility for foreign affairs, will be represented on the commission. However, it is a question the administration is not yet prepared to answer.

JAPAN PLANS EXCHANGE OF VIEWS ON PROGRAM FOR WASHINGTON MEETING

TOKIO, July 20.

By the Associated Press.

SUBSEQUENT to a Cabinet meeting held yesterday, which discussed a report of Kijuro Shidehara, the Ambassador to the United States, it was announced that the United States, Great Britain and Japan probably would exchange views in an effort to outline the program for the coming Washington conference.

A semiofficial statement issued yesterday says Japan is prepared to give all prominence in the conference to the questions of the open door and equal opportunity in China, so as to place China in a fair way to the attainment of an independent national status. The statement emphasizes the necessity of cooperation by the Powers in aiding China in the recovery of her rights and interests.

The Chinese Minister has had an exchange of views with Viscount Uchida, the Japanese Foreign Minister, regarding the situation as concerns China.

CUNLIFF PROPOSES ORDINANCE TO REGULATE PARK FLYING

Annoyance Said to Result From Practice of Traveling at Low Altitudes.

An ordinance regulating aviators who use the Forest Park landing field and soar over the park and the city is contemplated by Director of Public Welfare Cunliff. He said today he would confer with Director of Public Safety McKelvey on the provisions of such an ordinance.

The Park Commissioner issues permits for aviators to land in the park. No permits are given to charge for taking people up, but it is known that aviators are doing this, collecting in the air. The usual fee is said to be $1 a minute.

There has been complaint about the low altitude at which they fly, causing annoyance and anxiety to residents near the park. Cunliff thinks the ordinance will require that flying over the park be at a minimum height of 1000 feet and over the business section of the city at a minimum height of 3000 feet. Complaints of opera goers recently resulted in the issuance of an order prohibiting flying in the park after 7 p. m.

A passenger was seriously hurt yesterday when an airplane fell in Forest Park. An account of the accident will be found on Page 19 of the Post-Dispatch today.

Kansas City Clerk and Wife Missing After Hiring Auto Figuring in Attempted Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, July 20.—Police began an investigation today of the disappearance of Theodore F. Taylor, a druggist's clerk, and his wife, who have been missing since Sunday, following a report that a motor car which they rented here was found blood-stained and abandoned in St. Louis today.

The automobile referred to was used by a man who attempted to hold up a filling station at 1050 West Florissant avenue last night. The story of the attempt and the finding of the auto is printed on page 18.

BEES HALT TOWN'S BUSINESS

Traffic Held Up for an Hour by Swarm at Bozeman, Mont.

By the Associated Press.

BOZEMAN, Mont., July 20.—Business was paralyzed, scores of persons ran to cover and traffic ceased for more than an hour for a distance of three blocks in the business district here yesterday when thousands of bees, that apparently had lost their queen, swooped down on that section and filled the air.

Tourists driving into Bozeman over the Yellowstone trail stopped their cars and parked them to await a clearing of the atmosphere. Finally a city street foreman with a shovel and hammer succeeded in attracting the bees into the city park, a short distance away, by a constant clanging.

WHISKY AND STILLS SEIZED ON FARM; LIQUOR MADE THERE UNTIL RECENTLY

TWO DAUGHTERS VERIFY STATEMENT

Former Deputy Identifies Paraphernalia Found There as Having Been Taken by Him in Previous Liquor Raids.

Officers investigating charges that Sheriff John Willmann failed to enforce the prohibition laws in St. Louis County yesterday found two more stills, a large quantity of whisky and evidence of recent manufacture of "moonshine" whisky in a barn said by the owner to have been rented to Sheriff Willmann. The stills and whisky were concealed in the caves of a two-story barn on the farm of Mrs. Alma Wilhelmy, a widow, on the east side of Bellefontaine road, and north of the St. Cyr road. Mrs. Wilhelmy said the Sheriff, in renting the barn, told her he wanted it as a storage house for liquor and stills which he intended to confiscate.

Mrs. Wilhelmy and her two daughters, Mrs. Bertha Dickson and Miss Lulu Wilhelmy, in a statement to Prosecuting Attorney Fred Mueller of St. Louis County and Chief Federal Prohibition Enforcement Agent E. J. Hoover, said Sheriff Willmann rented the barn last January and that two Italians had been working in the barn nightly until about two weeks ago.

Each of the stills had a capacity for making 100 gallons of whisky a day. The whisky was in 45 five-gallon cans and, according to Hoover, was of 17% per cent alcoholic content. In addition the officers found 233 barrels bearing a strong odor of raisin mash, but containing only water and fermented raisins; several hundred empty cans similar to those in which the whisky was found and about 150 sacks which had contained corn sugar.

Statement of Mrs. Wilhelmy.

Mrs. Wilhelmy, whose statements were corrected occasionally by her daughters, related the following story to Mueller and Hoover in the presence of a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"Last September two Italians rented the barn and, without my consent, began manufacturing whisky. On Jan. 4 of this year the still was raided by Sheriff Willmann and A. E. Stuckman, who was one of his deputies at that time. The Italians had disappeared and Sheriff Willmann dumped 114 barrels of mash, which he found in the basement of the barn, and left the empty barrels standing.

"A few days later he came to the farm and told me that he desired to use the barn as a storage house for stills and liquor which he said he intended to confiscate in other parts of the county. He said that he would arrange for paying me the rent later on, as he did not know how long he would use the barn. It depended, he said, on what the Government would do in the way of disposing of the stills, barrels and whatever else he might confiscate. He told me to allow no one in the barn unless it was someone sent by him.

Says Sheriff Called Frequently.

"After that Sheriff Willmann called at the farm several times. He and his deputy hauled additional barrels to the barn which they said they had obtained in raids. They spent considerable time about the barn but I paid no particular attention to them.

"About two weeks after Sheriff Willmann had rented the barn two Italians came and informed me that Sheriff Willmann had sent them to work in the barn. I gave them the key to the basement of the barn, believing that the Sheriff had sent them, and they occupied the barn every night. I do not know of my

DE VALERA TO SEE LLOYD GEORGE, THEN GO HOME TO FORMULATE POLICY

DUBLIN PARLIAMENT SESSION LIKELY

Prime Minister Held to Be Giving Impression of Holding "Two Nation" Idea in Seeing North and South Irish Leaders Separately.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20.—The meeting between Eamonn de Valera and Premier Lloyd George tomorrow will probably be their last before the return of the South Ireland delegates to Dublin. Following their return to Ireland a meeting of the Irish Republican Parliament will in all likelihood be convened to give the republican leader an opportunity to report and take fresh counsel on the new complexions which the Downing street parleys may have placed upon the old questions, and to formulate a policy.

It is problematical whether De Valera will then go to Belfast for a meeting with Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, which was forecast this morning in some quarters as a probability.

De Valera will be urged by his colleagues to make representations to Lloyd George on what the republican leader's advisers regard as the unfavorable background created by the British Premier's maintenance of the "two-nation idea," by meeting De Valera and Sir James Craig separately.

"Some members of our party see in this a desire on the part of the Premier to hold before the world the familiar picture of two separate entities within Ireland, which contradicts the virtual essence of our case," said a man who enjoys the confidence of the southern delegation.

Craig's Statement Criticised.

In Irish quarters here there is some question in regard to the authorship of the statement given out by Sir James Craig on his departure for Belfast Monday evening, in which he declared that the British Government must reach its own agreement with De Valera and that Ulster was determined to maintain its present status, with its own parliament. These quarters point out that this was not an interview, but a statement, which the members of the De Valera party assert Sir James had in his pocket when he left Downing street, one of them quoting Lloyd George's secretary as authority for this assertion.

"Sir James Craig left No. 10 a few minutes after 7 o'clock that night; he entrained 1 hour and 45 minutes later for Belfast and gave out the statement just before the train started," said one of De Valera's colleagues. "An examination shows the care with which it was composed—it has too much to say about Lloyd George's baby, the Belfast Parliament, to be accepted as without inspiration from a quarter which it is not difficult to identify.

"It also is marked by vagueness and it pledges Ulster to nothing. The olive branch in the last sentence promising co-operation we have seen before. Its composition is not unlike that of many pronouncements issued from London in the past."

Hope of Meeting in Belfast.

The probability of a meeting in Belfast between De Valera and Craig was foreshadowed in some political quarters and several newspapers this morning.

Gen. J. C. Smuts, Premier of South Africa, who re-entered the negotiations yesterday, doubtless is largely responsible for this and similar optimistic speculation, which has survived under great difficulty since Monday, when Ulster's Premier departed suddenly for Belfast, after making a forceful statement on the subject of self-determination as it applied to Ulster.

This seemed for a time to end all hope for an amiable meeting between the two Irish leaders, but the moderating influence of Gen. Smuts, coupled with Belfast dispatches to the effect that Sir James does not regard the peace parleys as interrupted, have gone a long way towards re-establishing confidence.

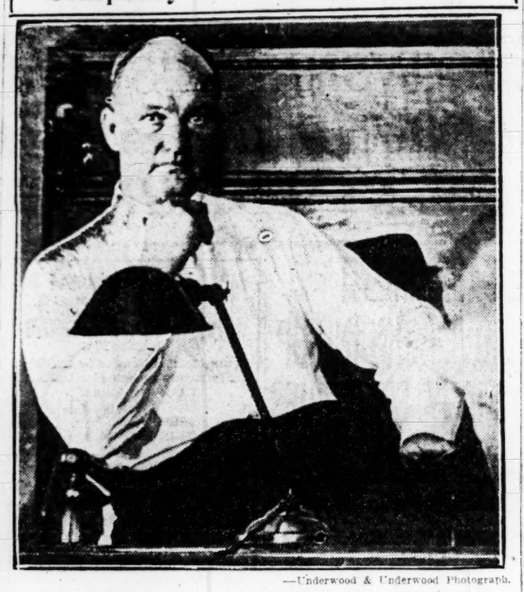

Cabinet Meeting Today.

The British Cabinet today will give special consideration to the Irish question and it is believed that the aforementioned proposals will be discussed at great length, and that they are likely to receive the approval of the entire ministry.

On the other hand, there still are persistent rumors that the Cabinet is not altogether harmonious, although definite expressions to this effect are not obtainable.

Staunch Unionist members of the British Parliament are reported to be increasingly nervous respecting the progress of Irish affairs and it is known that about 40 of them met privately yesterday to discuss their positions.

BURNS TESTIFIES TO AGREEMENTS TO THROW GAMES

next day. We went to a man's room and met Joe Gedeon. Some St. Louis man and some other men were there. Attell said he could get $20,000 from some bankers. He said a St. Louis man would put up some of the money."

Questioned About St. Louisan.

Just what did the St. Louis man say?" "He said he would put up half of the money. Then I went to see the players at the Warner. I saw Gandil, but he said again he was through. I asked about my cut of the $10,000 I gave him. He said he didn't have the money and that I wouldn't get any. I told him I would tell everything about the game throwing. I went to the Sherman Hotel and told Attell it was all off. I had no more talks with Attell about the games. Maharg and I went back to Cincinnati for the last two games there. Then I went back to New York. I never talked with the players in Cincinnati.

"After the series, where did you go? "To Canada, then to Chicago, then to Louisiana, then to Texas and back to Louisiana. Finally I came back to Chicago."

"When did you hear from anyone in reference to coming here about this case?" "I got a telegram from Maharg last June. Maharg then came to see me. Then Ban Johnson, president of the American League, and John Tyrell, Assistant State's Attorney in this case, came to see Maharg and me in Texas. Then I came to Chicago and saw Judge Charles V. Barrett, who represents the American League in this case. Johnson paid my expenses. I went back to Texas and was called back here about a month ago by Johnson, who again paid my expenses. He sent me to Northern Michigan for a while, then to Milwaukee and then back here. I received no pay from Johnson other than my expenses."

"Was any promise made you by Tyrell or Johnson concerning this case?" "No, sir. I came here voluntarily to testify."

Attorney Berger, of the defense, called the jury's attention to the fact that Burns had given no testimony against Carl Zork, of St. Louis, a defendant.

Cross-Examination of Burns.

James C. O'Brien cross-examined Burns.

"How much money have you received from Ban Johnson?" "About $200 or $300."

"Is that all you expect?" "Yes."

"When you heard you were indicted what did you do?" "I went to Mexico at once."

"When you came back and met Johnson what did you do?" "I went fishing. Ban gave me $100 for expenses."

"What were you fishing for, witnesses? Did you make any agreement as to how much money you would get?" "No."

Burns then said when he come to Chicago at Ban Johnson's request Johnson's secretary registered him at a hotel as Williams.

"Claude Williams?" "I don't know what first name."

"Where did you go fishing in Texas?" "Devil's River."

"Where did Chick Gandil tell you to go the last time you saw him?" "To hell."

"So you went to the Devil's River instead?" "Yes."

Tells of Getting $10,000.

Under questioning by George Gorman, Assistant State's Attorney, Burns told of meetings in Cincinnati hotels.

"When you were in room 708 of the Hotel Sinton the day of the second game, what happened?" asked Gorman.

"Attell and several others were there," answered Burns. "Attell said Rothstein (one of the alleged gamblers) had $200,000 to bet on the series, but it was hard to get bets down and he did not want to give them any money. I insisted on at least $10,000. Attell showed me piles of money under a mattress. Forty thousand dollars was due the players then. Attell, in talking of Rothstein, said Rothstein had a private wire from New York to Cincinnati and someone said that Pittsburg gamblers were in on the deal. I don't know who said that. Attell, Bennett (an alleged gambler) and Maharg (Billy Mahary, former ball player), were there. Someone said the Pittsburg gamblers had a hard time getting money down.

"Gave Money to Gandil."

"Attell then took $10,000 from under the mattress and gave it to me.

"I offered it to Maharg. He wouldn't take it. I put it in my shirt and took it up to the players' room. I passed 'Kid' Gleason on the way.

"Risberg and McMullin were in the hotel room—I don't recall the others. Later Cicotte and Gandil came in and I gave the $10,000 to Gandil. There were two other players there."

In question and answer form the testimony was as follows:

Gorman asked: "What did the players say?" Burns replied: "Gandil said they had been double-crossed. Attell said they must win the third game—the next day—so as to improve the odds, which then were three to two in favor of Chicago."

Burns' Testimony of Players' Agreement to Throw Games.

Burns' testimony yesterday about the meeting at which the players are alleged to have agreed to throw the series, follows:

"I went to Cincinnati for the series. Christy Mathewson, the baseball pitcher, Bud Fisher and some sport writers were riding on the same train."

"When you reached Cincinnati, where did you go?" "Sinton Hotel. I met Abe Attell at the Gibson Hotel and then went to see the players in room 708. Cicotte, Gandil, Risberg, McMullin, Williams, Felsch, Weaver were there. I don't recall anyone else."

"What did you say?" "I said I had $100,000 to finance the world's series, saying Rothstein, Bennett and Attell were financing it."

"Then what?" "Gandil said to bring them up. Then I met Attell and Bennett and took them up to the players."

"Who were present?" "The same men I named."

"What did Attell say?" "He said they'd give $20,000 after each game. The players, that is, Chick Gandil. Chick saying they wanted all the dough at once, but they finally agreed to the $20,000 plan."

"What was said about Rothstein?" "Attell said Rothstein was financing the deal. Gandil and Cicotte wanted to know if Rothstein was o. k. and Attell said Rothstein was a "walking bank."

"What was the $100,000 to be paid for?" "Throwing the 1919 World's Series games."

"What was said about the order of games to be thrown?" "The players said they'd throw them in any order desired. It was to be a made-to-order series."

"What else was said?" "Gandil and Cicotte said they'd throw the first and second games. Cicotte said he'd throw the game if he had to throw the ball over the fence. Gandil said, I was to be the stakeholder in the deal. I was to get the $20,000 after each game. Gandil said they wanted to win one game for Cicotte so he could get a good contract for 1920."

"Who left the room first?" "Attell and Bennett. I asked the players what I was to get. Gandil said, I would get a player's part. Then I went to Norwood, a suburb. After the first game that day, I met Attell at the Haviland hotel and then we met Maharg. Attel said he bet all the money he had and couldn't pay the players until the bets were collected. I told the ball players and told Williams that Attell wanted to see him. Williams, Gandil and I went to see Attell at a place on Walnut street about a block and a half from the Sinton hotel. That was about 8:30 p. m. Attell asked Williams if he would throw the game the next day and Williams said he would. I met Attell next day and he showed me a telegram from New York. I read it and then went to the Western Union to get a copy of it, but they could not find it. I went to see the ball players then—all except Jackson were present—and told them a telegram had been received that twenty grand—$20,000—had been sent. I told them I'd get the money and give it to them before the game. Gandil said they were being double-crossed."

"Gandil said the telegram was a fake. I said if it was, I wasn't in on it. I said I'd put up an oil lease on 12,000 acres in Texas as security in the deal. I went to my hotel and got Maharg, but I never put up the lease. Maharg told me Rothstein might not pay the players and he would not let me put up the lease. After the second game, I met Abe Attell at the hotel with Maharg and Bennett."

"Is the man you knew as Bennett here?" "Yes, there he is."

Burns then pointed to David Zelser of Des Moines, Iowa, one of the defendants, as the man he knew as Bennett. Court then adjourned.

31,000,000 MORE GOLD MARKS PAID BY GERMANY TO ALLIES

Government Ready to Remit 41,000,000,000, Which Will Bring Total Paid to 310,000,000 Marks.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 20.—The Reparations Commission issued an official statement yesterday announcing that the German Government has just paid to it 31,000,000 gold marks in European currency on account of the three months' notes given in the latter part of May in settlement of the 1,000,000,000 gold marks due before June 1.

The commission announces that the 1,000,000,000 marks were to be made up as follows when the pledges were accepted by the commission in May: Three months' treasury notes, amounting to 839,573,000 marks and currency 160,427.

Including the remittance of 31,000,000 marks paid yesterday, Germany now has redeemed 114,949,000 marks, making a total of 275,376,000 marks paid on account of the 1,000,000,000 marks. The German Government has informed the Reparations Commission that it is ready to remit immediately 41,000,000 marks more in European currency, which will bring the total paid in specie and currency to more than 310,000,000 marks.

Lineman Killed in Fall From Pole.

L. V. Tucker, 54 years old, of 3040 Easton avenue, a lineman for the Laclede Gas Light Co., was killed at 11 a. m. today when he fell 30 feet from a telephone pole in an alley near 716 North Sarah street. He had just reached the cross arm on the pole when he fell.

SAYS HE HAS BEEN ROBBING MAIL BOXES FOR 10 YEARS

Prisoner Tells Police in That Time He Has Obtained Between $7000 and $9000.

Burt Johnson, 43 years old, arrested last night at Twelfth and Walnut streets, half a block from the Central Police Station, related today that for the last 10 years he had been robbing mail boxes from which, he said, he had obtained between $7000 and $9000.

"Where do you belong?" the patrolman asked.

"In jail," was the unexpected reply. "I am on my way to give myself up."

The police sent Johnson to the city hospital. The report of physicians there was that he was mentally sound. Johnson said that he usually got into mail boxes by opening the locks with a hair pin. Those locks which did not respond to that manipulation, he said, he opened by striking them a sharp blow upon the shoulder with a small hammer.

Johnson said that he came to St. Louis in May, after suffering "the fright of his life" when a policeman in Beaumont, Tex., fired six shots at him. He found work in a restaurant here, but burned his hand badly.

"I am getting old and I can't work with this hand," he said. "I concluded the thing to do was to surrender."

DISARMAMENT MOVE BRINGING UP MANY BIG ISSUES

allow the imperial Government to decide what should be done, but Australia and New Zealand especially wish to have a voice in any decisions regarding the future of the Pacific.

Canada is not so much concerned, as her policy, it is pointed out, is practically identical with that of the United States.

President Harding has been informed of the desire of the dominion Premiers that advantage be taken of their presence in London to subject the Pacific question at least to a preliminary examination here, according to the London Times. The Premiers hope to be in a position at their meeting today, adds the Times, "to take a definite step forward in this matter with the concurrence of the United States."

It declares that the strictest secrecy was maintained relative to the discussion of the Pacific conference and empire defense considered by the Premiers at the session yesterday, but that no decision was reached on the Pacific conference. The view seemed to be held that no Pacific conference could be of any value without the presence of the dominion Premiers.

The Times reports that the Canadian Premier, Arthur Meighen, has postponed his departure from London.

Japan Not Opposed to Conference, Says Ambassador at London.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20.—Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Ambassador, denies that there is any question of opposition on the part of Japan to President Harding's proposal for a conference at Washington, which, on the contrary, he said, was welcome. Japan was quite ready to discuss with other powers questions of mutual interest, including the limitation of armaments, on which the Japanese Government had already expressed its willingness to negotiate. Japan, however, desired to know beforehand what subjects were to be discussed.

"Otherwise," remarked the Ambassador, "we may embark upon a never-ending discussion."

"The suggestion that naturally arises," continued the Ambassador, "is whether we are again to bring up matters which the treaty of Versailles has already dealt with. It is clear that such matters as Shantung, Yap and New Guinea, if raised, would result in a general conference on points that are already accomplished facts.

"Expressing my personal views, I believe that a practical solution of all the questions involved is possible without interfering with matters of principle that have already been decided upon."

25 PERSONS VOLUNTEER TO GIVE BLOOD FOR TRANSFUSION

Four Selected, Each of Whom Declines Offer of $25 for Services, Physicians Say.

Twenty-five persons responded at Barnes Hospital yesterday to a newspaper advertisement offering payment of $25 to volunteers who would give blood for transfusion to the veins of Joseph Hoelscher of 4633 Nebraska avenue, a sufferer from pernicious anemia.

Four of the volunteers were selected and an examination is being conducted to determine which possesses blood best suited for helpful transfusion. Physicians at the hospital said that all of the four declined to consider receiving the offered $25 for their aid. In cases of pernicious anemia, several transfusions often occur and the names of the 25 volunteers are being kept for a possible future emergency in the case.

GILLASPY FIRED AFTER 45 YEARS ON POLICE FORCE

TWO TEMPORARY CAPTAINS CONFIRMED

One Acting Captain and Lieutenant Restored to Their Former Ranks — Other Changes Announced

The number of police Captains is now 14, and the number of Lieutenants 28, the normal numbers for those positions, since the Police Board, at its meeting yesterday, passed on confirmation of the temporary appointments made May 28.

The board confirmed its temporary promotions of Lieuts. Octa N. Chrisner, Charles H. Loepker and Arthur L. McGuire to the rank of Captain. It confirmed its temporary promotions of Sergts. John S. Fleming, William R. Walton, James Vasey, Charles Maupin and Fred Schiefelbein to the rank of Lieutenant. It also confirmed the promotion of Lieut. Joseph Gerk to the rank of Inspector.

Promotions Not Confirmed.

The board did not confirm the temporary promotion of Lieut. T. George Dineen to the rank of Captain, or its temporary promotion of Sergt. Fred Wardle to the rank of Lieutenant, and they will return to their former ranks. The reason given for the board's action was that, under the arrangement made in May, there have been one Captain and one Lieutenant too many.

The board did not confirm the temporary appointment of Lieut. Wade Mathews to the position of Assistant Chief, but he was directed to continue in that position under his temporary appointment. There is a report that Lieut. Vasey is being considered for appointment as Assistant Chief.

Lieutenant-Colonel C. G. Gillaspy, retired, who was recently Assistant Chief, was removed from the force on a charge of insubordination. He failed to report at the Municipal Courts building, a few days ago, for a special task to which Inspector Gerk assigned him, and the Inspector was obliged to prefer the charge. Gillaspy has recently been planning to quit his connection with the force and return to his former home in Boone County.

Changes for Captains.

Capt. Chrisner, who has been without a definite assignment, was placed by the board in charge of the North Market Street Station. Capt. McGuire was transferred from the Carondelet to the Laclede Avenue Station, and Capt. William Tierney of the Laclede Avenue Station was sent to Carondelet.

Former Assistant Chief Gillaspy, who has served in the department 45 years, spoke resentfully today at his home, 1717 Cora avenue, of the board's action in his case, and of the treatment he has received since he was retired in May.

"When I was retired on a patrolman's pay, I was given the rank of retired Assistant Chief of Police, and now I have been dismissed because I declined to serve as a flunky," said Gillaspy. "I was summoned to police headquarters the other day by Acting Chief Gerk, who showed me a written order directing the retired Captains to go to Police Court and investigate cases that had been nolle prossed. I called Gerk's attention to the fact that the order was addressed to retired Captains, and told him it did not apply to me, as I was a retired Assistant Chief. He said he would look into the matter.

Refused the Assignment.

"Yesterday Gerk called me in again and informed me that the order was intended for me, as well as for the retired Captains. I refused to accept the assignment. I felt that there was some dignity attached to my office, although I knew that the purpose of the order was to humiliate me. Why should I do work that an office boy could perform? I could only inquire as to why cases had been nolle prossed; and I might have been told that it was none of my business, or, perhaps, I might have been cited for contempt of court. I refused to take the assignment, and as a result I was dropped from the rolls.

"This is a fine way for a man to be treated after he has given 45 years of his life to police service. When I was retired I asked the commissioners if I was superannuated or incapacitated in any way and they said I was not. I am not surprised that I was dropped. I realized that my retirement was only a means of getting me out of the department by easy stages.

Going Back to Columbia.

"When former Chief Young was tried on charges I appeared as a witness against him. Now he is a member of the police board. I might have expected what I was going to get. I have arranged to sell my residence, and I am going back to my former home in Columbia, Mo. I am considering several business offers there."

St. Louis County Sheriff Whose Office Is Investigated in a Liquor Inquiry own knowledge what they were doing there because I never investigated, but I presumed they were working because we frequently detected the odor of mash.

"However, I did not interfere with them because they had told me the Sheriff had sent them and I took it for granted that they were working with his permission. Sheriff Willmann did not come here after that.

"About two weeks ago the Italians departed, telling me and my daughters that they would not return. They said they had received a telephone message to quit work. I did not question them and that is all the information they gave me. They turned over the key to the basement of the barn. Neither my daughters nor I have entered the basement until this afternoon. I felt that as I had rented the place to Sheriff Willmann that I was not concerned with the basement. I never learned the names of the Italians, but would be able to identify them on sight."

Mrs. Wilhelmy and her daughters went to Hoover's office in St. Louis today and repeated, in writing, the statements they made yesterday. Hoover said he would submit this to Special Assistant Attorney-General Dyott.

Deputy Identifies Barrels.

Former Deputy Sheriff A. E. Stuckman, who resigned his job Monday and later expressed disgust with the manner in which Sheriff Willmann had been dealing with liquor cases, was present when Mrs. Wilhelmy and her daughters made their statements to Mueller and Hoover. He identified barrels in the basement as those which had been confiscated by Willmann in raids last winter east of the Wilhelmy farm on the Bellefontaine road.

There was an excavation about six feet deep in the basement of the barn. Stuckman said that when the barn was raided Jan. 4 he made a thorough search of the premises and was certain that the stills and whisky found there yesterday were not there at the time of the previous raid. Stuckman has been appointed a Deputy Constable by Constable Jules Schoenbein.

Following yesterday afternoon's raid, Prosecuting Attorney Mueller went to Sheriff Willmann's country home, at Olive Street and Spoede roads, where Willmann is confined to his bed, suffering from auto-intoxication, and interviewed him concerning Mrs. Wilhelmy's statement and also in connection with the charge previously made by Justice of the Peace A. H. Werremeyer of Wellston that Willmann knew of the existence of a 250-gallon still on the farm of Louis A. Wolfsberger, on the Olive Street road, near Groby road, which was raided by Hoover last Sunday night.

To Make Personal Report.

Mueller departed for Jefferson City this morning to make a personal report to Attorney-General Barrett, who had directed him to investigate the charges against Willmann. Mueller would not tell reporters what statement Willmann had made to him, saying that he would give out nothing for publication until he had made his report to the Attorney-General.

A Post-Dispatch reporter called the Willmann home by telephone in an effort to get a statement from Willmann. Mrs. Willmann said that she would deliver a message to her husband who was still in bed. The reporter told her what Mrs. Wilhelmy had said to Mueller and Hoover. Later she said that Sheriff Willmann had made a statement concerning Mrs. Wilhelmy's charge to Prosecuting Attorney Mueller last night and that he did not care to say anything for publication.

Hoover emptied the cans of whisky found yesterday and destroyed the two stills.

One still taken in a raid some time ago is stored in a vault in the courthouse at Clayton and there is room for more. The vault is 20 by 12 feet. Part of another still is stored in the jail.

Chief Prohibition Enforcement Agent Hoover today, after a conference with John C. Dyott, special Assistant Attorney-General, applied for warrants against the two men arrested Sunday night at the Wolfsberger farm, Jim Grassah and Jim Salvo, and three others, whose names have not been made known. The warrants were issued.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—Prosecuting Attorney Mueller of St. Louis County reported to Attorney-General Barrett today on his investigation of the charges that Sheriff Willmann of St. Louis County knew of the operation of and had failed to suppress a whisky still, which was raided Sunday night on the farm of Louis Wolfsberger on the Olive street road in St. Louis County by Federal Prohibition Enforcement Agent Hoover. Justice of the Peace Werremeyer told Hoover that on July 9 he had called Sheriff Willmann's attention to the still. The Attorney-General ordered an investigation.

Following a conference between Attorney-General Barrett, Mueller and Representative Heege of St. Louis County, attorney for Sheriff Willmann, Barrett made the following statement: "Under the statute it is for the Governor to decide whether to ask for the resignation or removal of the Sheriff. Immediately upon Gov. Hyde's return I shall put these facts before him and I do not care to anticipate his action. The written statement secured by Prosecuting Attorney Mueller presents a number of serious questions which will have immediate further investigation."

OFFICIAL TELLS OF METHODS FOLLOWED

Admission Made That None of Directors Knew Grocery Business and Stores Were Operated at a Loss.

That there is a discrepancy of $320,000 in the accounts of the Industrial Transportation Co. was revealed in further testimony heard before Referee Walter D. Coles yesterday afternoon in the hearing on the voluntary bankruptcy petition filed by the company.

J. M. Lashly, attorney for the trustees, who conducted the examination, said he could not ascertain what had become of the money. "I'm still hunting it and a lot more," he said.

Alec A. Hart, vice president and treasurer of the company was the only witness. Referee Coles announced at the conclusion of the examination that further hearings in the case would be suspended until Monday, Sept. 19, that the books and records of the company might be examined. Lashly said he would attempt to locate L. H. Edwards, president of the company, and W. A. Gamble, former vice president, and have them come back to St. Louis to testify. Edwards and Gamble left St. Louis immediately after the bankruptcy petition was filed.

Gives List of Expenditures.

In his testimony yesterday Hart estimated that the company had spent $200,000 on real estate, $630,000 in buying stores and fixtures, paid stock salesmen $550,000 in commissions, lost $400,000 due to depreciation in the price of merchandise and $400,000 in unpaid notes given by subscribers to stock. He also testified that the company operated at a large overhead expense.

The expenses of the home office were about $60,000 a year. The general officers received a yearly salary of $12,000 each, beside stock bonuses. Each divisional superintendent was paid about $500 a month. There were 12 divisional superintendents, bringing the item up to $72,000 a year.

After figuring the total expenditures, from Hart's estimates, Lashly then subtracted the amount from the $2,600,000 stock issue and found the $320,000 discrepancy. He asked Hart if he could account for it. Hart replied he could not.

During the last 60 days before the bankruptcy petition was filed, it was a continual fight on the part of the company to keep from failing, Hart said. The sale of new stock was depended upon to help the company meet its pressing obligations. On Feb. 14 last, Hart was authorized to draw $100,000 from the various banks in localities where stock had been sold on the promise of opening stores. The stores were never opened.

Stores Operate at Loss.

Hart said the money was used in the general fund and to continue running old stores, which were operating at a loss. At the same time Gamble, who resigned as vice president of the company in January, to organize the Middle States Finance Corporation, was given a contract to sell $500,000 worth of stock for the company at the rate of $60,000 a month.

It turned out, however, that, although Gamble had about 100 salesmen, they were able to sell only $60,000 worth of stock in two months.

At the last stockholders' meeting, it was brought out in the examination, a number of disgruntled stockholders asked officers of the company why stores had not been opened in communities where stock had been sold. One man said he had purchased $2000 worth of stock on the assurance that he would be made manager of the local store. The store had not been opened, and he wanted his salary to start. Edwards told him he would see him in his office after the meeting. Other stockholders made inquiries as to why dividends had never been paid.

Officials Lacked Experience.

Hart was asked how many men experienced in the grocery business there were in the higher positions of the company. He replied there were none to his knowledge.

"What was Edward's business?" Lashly asked.

"I believe he was superintendent of telegraph for the Santa Fe Railroad. He had no experience in the grocery business."

"Was there anyone who knew anything about the game?"

"I regret to state there were none."

"What did Gamble do?"

"He was in the life insurance business and a stock salesman."

G. F. Bentrup, secretary of the St. Louis Association of Credit Men, and trustee of the company, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the books of the company were in bad shape. He said it would cost $6000 to audit them and that he was not sure whether it would be worth while to put the creditors to that expense.

HOUSE AGREES TO RESERVE BOARD'S REQUEST FOR INQUIRY

Governor Harding Desires Investigation of Affairs in Last 18 Months to End Complaints.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, with the approval of Secretary Mellon, has asked Congress to investigate the operations of the board and the reserve system, and Chairman McFadden of the House Banking and Currency Committee late yesterday introduced a resolution to carry out the request.

The investigation proposed would embrace every detail of the activities of the board, its 12 banks and its branch banks over "the period of deflation," or about the last 18 months, according to McFadden. He said if the House approved of his program he would tackle the job immediately, taking in what he described as "a mess of charges and accusations of discriminations coming mostly from the South and West."

"There have been numberless attacks on the board and the banks," he said. "It is my idea that if there is truth in them appropriate legislation should follow and if they are groundless then the board most certainly is entitled to a clean bill. At any rate, Congress should know the truth and either silence the criticism or disclose the evils."

Veteran Associated Press Man Dies.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., July 20.—Guy R. Pritchard, 42 years old, traffic department representative of the Associated Press here and a veteran employe of the organization, died at a local hospital early today. He was stricken with apoplexy Sunday morning and never regained consciousness.

SECOND MAN GIVEN DEATH PENALTY IN THE DECK KILLING

Eugene Hayes Is Convicted and Sentenced to Hang by Jury at Hillsboro, Mo., for Saloon Man's Murder.

Eugene Hayes, 25 years old, of 1712 South Tenth street, was convicted by a jury at Hillsboro, Mo., last night, of the murder of Andrew Deck at Herculaneum Feb. 26, and the penalty fixed at death by hanging. The jury was out an hour.

Deck, a former St. Louis saloon man, was killed for giving information to dry law enforcement officers. James H. Seward, 39, of 1621 South Third street, was convicted July 13 and his penalty fixed at death. Hayes' father, Ernest Hayes, and his brother, William, and Jesse and Otto Thomas, charged with complicity, are to be tried later.

Repudiates Signed Statement.

Hayes and Seward signed written confessions following their arrest, but Hayes testified yesterday that the police mistreated him and misrepresented what he was signing. He could not read it, he said, because the police had taken away his glasses. He made no comment on the jury's verdict.

Neither of the condemned men has been formally sentenced, and it has been said an appeal would be taken by Seward.

Seward Admitted Shooting.

Hayes and Seward were arrested in Herculaneum by St. Louis officers who had been informed that Deck had been active against Hayes and Seward on suspicion that they had been shipping liquor to St. Louis. In his written confession Seward said he killed Deck with Hayes' revolver and that later Hayes gave him $20 for the crime. All the indicted men have been held without bond in the Jefferson County jail.

NO ACTION ON KU KLUX KLAN

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 20.—No action has been taken nor statements made by State officials regarding alleged activities of masked bands in Texas, Attorney-General Cureton said today no requests have been made by local authorities for State action and pointed out that it is the duty of the district and county attorneys to prosecute such cases where there are law violations.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 20.—Representative Patman of Cass today prepared a petition requesting the Governor to submit a bill to the special session of the Legislature making it a felony to appear in disguise in Texas. The bill he said, would be aimed at the alleged Ku Klux Klan organization.

ROCKEFELLER'S HOLDINGS IN STANDARD OIL OF NEW JERSEY, $106,875

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.

INFORMATION obtained by the New York World accounts for approximately $150,000,000 worth of the common and preferred stock of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, now held either by members of the Rockefeller family, or by the Educational institutions founded and supported by the aged master of the world's greatest fortune—and of all this only 1000 shares remain in John D. Rockefeller's name. Their value is only $106,875.

If the huge transfer of ownership of stock in the New Jersey corporation is an index to a new Rockefeller general policy, a large part of the world's greatest fortune is being distributed.

It has not been known who held the bulk of Standard Oil stock. The World's information accounts for 978,480 shares of common stock and 225,869 shares of preferred stock of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, as follows:

	Common.	Preferred.
Rockefeller General Education Board	170,320	56,779
Rockefeller Foundation	196,000	55,000
Rockefeller Institute	.....	4,000
Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Fund	40,000	19,000
John D. Rockefeller Jr.	452,080	38,979
Mrs. Harold F. McCormick (daughter of John D. Rockefeller)	33,280	45,000
Mrs. E. Parmalee (also a daughter)	80,000	6,120
William Rockefeller	2,800	.....
John D. Rockefeller	1,000	.....

The combined value of these securities, according to yesterday's quotations on the stock market, which were 133½ for the common and 106¾ for the preferred, is $147,396,283.

MEAT PACKERS SAID TO MAKE 19 CENTS ON EACH ANIMAL

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 20.—Profits of the "Big Five" packers last year amounted to 19 cents a head on all livestock slaughtered, J. B. Heinemann, secretary of the Institute of American Meat Packers, told the American Institute of Banking here today.

During the year 37,155,958 meat animals were dressed by the five companies, he said, at a profit of $7,218,086. Aggregate sales were $3,913,002,000, giving average profits of less than a quarter of a cent on each dollar's sales. The companies, he said, earned an average profit of 1.2 per cent on capital and surplus.

$35,000 Breach of Promise Verdict.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 20.—A verdict for $35,000 was returned today by the Recorder's Court jury that considered the suit for alleged breach of promise brought by Miss Monica Hatton against Arthur Stott, wealthy Detroiter.

BURKETT CASE RECALLS WOMAN SWINDLER

Forgery Suspect Said to Resemble Ann O'Delia Diss Debar's Maid.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—An investigation was begun yesterday by Assistant District-Attorney Dooling to determine whether Mrs. Anna Richardson Burkett of Hillsdale, Ind., who pleaded not guilty yesterday of forging the name of the late Theodore Roosevelt to a $69,000 promissory note, had even been employed as a maid to Ann O'Delia Diss Debar, notorious woman swindler of a generation ago.

"Old court attaches told Dooling," he said, "that there was a striking resemblance between Mrs. Burkett and the Diss Debar maid.

The career of Ann O'Delia Diss Debar was long and varied. She was last heard from as having been released from an English prison in 1906, with a man named Jackson, who posed as her husband. They were sentenced for their connection with a cult known as "Theocratic Unity." She was best recalled in New York as the woman who victimized Luther R. Marsh, a wealthy lawyer, who deeded his Madison avenue home to her, gave her large sums of money and furnished an expensive apartment where she gave public seances. She was convicted of defrauding Marsh and served a prison term.

She traveled about the country claiming to have hidden powers, and was once sentenced to the Illinois Penitentiary under the name of Vera P. Ava. Her various marriages included those to a Dr. Messant, Gen. Joseph H. Diss Debar, and William J. McGowan, a wealthy Chicagoan.

PRESSMEN WIN $165,000 SUIT AGAINST UNION OFFICIALS

Action Grew Out of Promotion of Hydro-Electric Power Co.—Appeal to Be Taken.

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 20.—The International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America is entitled to recover $165,000 and costs from George L. Berry, president of the International, and his four associate members on the board of directors, by a ruling yesterday of Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran.

The decision was in the case of Chicago Union No. 3, against George L. Berry et al. The action grew out of the alleged misuse of union funds by the officials in furthering the Hydro-Electric Power Co. and other projects in Tennessee.

It was announced last night that the plaintiffs would appeal the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Cochran held that other subordinate unions of the International union in practically every principal city in the country are not suspended from the union and are still in good standing.

ADMITS HOLDUP STORY IS FALSE

Man Makes Own Nose Bleed Before Calling the Police.

When policemen answered a call to Twentieth and Locust streets at 9:30 last night, they found Harry Holtzman, 36 years old, owner of a dry goods store at 2109 Market street, and his wife. Holtzmann's nose was bleeding. He said he and his wife had been held up and robbed at Twenty-first and St. Charles streets of $322 in cash and jewelry worth $350 by two negroes, one of whom had hit him in the nose.

After he had been questioned and caught in contradictions he signed a confession. He said he had owed his sister-in-law $250 since December and she wanted it. He borrowed it from a loan company and hid it at home. He had $500 robbery insurance. He figured that if he could get that $500 he would be even with the world. So he and his wife went to Twenty-first and St. Charles and he tampered with his nose until it bled and then called the police.

1,000,000 Pounds of Sugar Burned.

By the Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 20.—Fire of undetermined origin yesterday destroyed the Morbihan Sugar factory near New Iberia, La., according to word received here last night. About 1,000,000 pounds of sugar was burned with an estimated loss of $300,000, the report said.

MRS. WOODLOCK GOES TO PRISON

Will Serve Ten-year Sentence For First Husband's Death.

Twenty-three prisoners were taken from St. Louis to the penitentiary at Jefferson City at 7 o'clock this morning to serve out their various sentences. Among the prisoners is Mrs. Lillian Woodlock, who is under a 10-year sentence for the murder of her first husband, Thomas P. Broderick. When notified that she would be taken to Jefferson City this morning Mrs. Woodlock told the deputy sheriff she was suffering from rheumatism and could not walk. She was taken to the train in an automobile. Her daughter, Mrs. Daniel E. Miller, was at the train. Mrs. Miller, formerly Ursula Broderick, was paroled June 21, under her 10-year sentence for the killing of her stepfather, Joseph Woodlock.

Another prisoner in the lot is "New York Blackie," who was sentenced to serve 10 years July 1, on his plea of guilty to charges of having burglar tools and having committed burglary.

Canada to Reduce Army.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, July 20.—Canada will reduce its permanent military force by 10 per cent after July 31 in the interest of economy, it was announced yesterday by the Military Department. This means that the force will have a maximum of 3600 officers and men instead of 4000.

RAILROAD SALE CONTEMPLATED

Belleville Bondholders in Arkansas Line Notified of Project.

The sale of the Little Rock, Maumelle & Western Railroad in Arkansas for what can be obtained for the rails, ties and right of way is contemplated in the near future, according to a letter received in Belleville by bondholders. The letter is written by Arthur C. Becker, a former Belleville resident, who is secretary and treasurer of the railroad.

It is reported that Belleville citizens own bonds to the value of $100,000 to $150,000 in the company.

The original plan of the company was to haul timber and when the timber was exhausted to extend the line to Hot Springs, Ark., and haul freight. Walter W. Fuess, formerly of Belleville, is vice president of the company.

DIES OF SLEEPING SICKNESS

Ailment of Dr. Dodsley, Who Died Monday, Is Diagnosed.

The illness of Theodore R. Dodsley, 44 years old, a dentist of 1964 Burd avenue, was pronounced just before his death Monday night at St. John's Hospital to have been sleeping sickness.

Several physicians who attended him were puzzled by his case, perceiving none of the common symptoms of illness. He did not sleep constantly, arising intermittently to eat meals, but returning to bed each time. He also walked about at times. He was ill from last April 23. A specialist in diagnosis finally pronounced the ailment sleeping sickness. Dr. Dodsley was a graduate of the University of Michigan, was a member of the Kiwanis Club and of the Masonic lodge.

BABY ABANDONED AT NURSERY

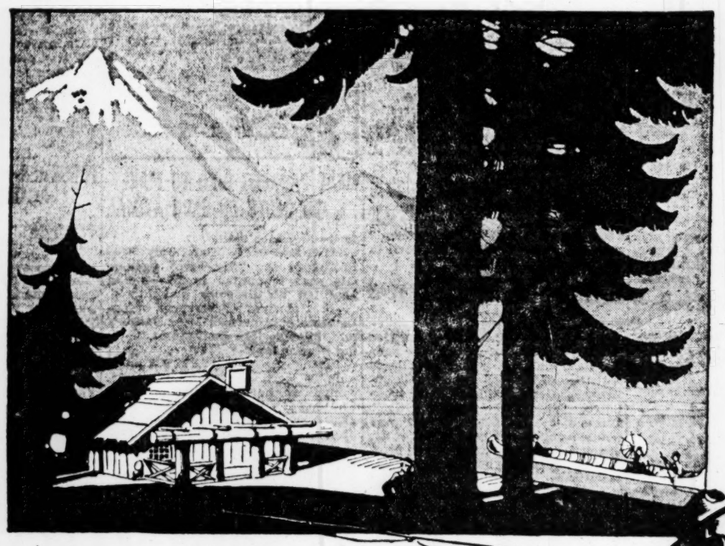

Mrs. Lillian Gurber, in charge of a day nursery at 2303 South Thirteenth street, last night called the attention of the police to a 6-weeks-old baby girl which she said had been abandoned at the nursery by a woman who gave an address on Delmar boulevard. The mother failed to return for the baby when the time was up yesterday afternoon.

Investigation revealed the address on Delmar boulevard was a vacant lot.

American Freight Steamship Ashore.

By the Associated Press.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 20.—The American freight steamship Binghamton went ashore on the Gannet dry ledge in a dense fog early yesterday. Cap. M. L. Gilbert and the crew of thirty men landed safely last night in the ship's boats at Chebocque Point. It was feared the vessel might be a total loss. The Binghamton registers 1549 net tons.

The One Trip in a Thousand—Make It Now!

—a new kind of vacation full of fascinating change

By An Easterner

MEN, women, children—all need a change in summer time from the year's routine of business, home and school.

It is profitable in dollars and in health. Good business men and doctors all agree. So don't decide this year that you'll stay home.

Decide to go and go now. But have a complete change, for in the greatest change is greatest value.

I was so advised by a physician years ago, and the question naturally arose, "Where to?"

A Surprising Answer

A friend of mine suggested Southern California, which caused me great surprise.

I thought it a warm place to go in summer. But he convinced me otherwise and so I went.

I spent July, August and September there and slept under blankets ninety nights. I never knew a finer summer climate. Balmy days, ideal for any sport, and refreshing sleep were invariably the rule.

But more than that, I enjoyed the absolute diversion due to totally different environment and "atmosphere," that really renews people who are fagged.

This same experience is near you, too—only a few hours away. For two weeks or two months—it's worth your while.

A World Within a Province

Four thousand miles of paved automobile highways marked by 70,000 official guide-signs to direct you to myriad points of interest, including a one-hundred-and-one-mile drive called "Rim of the World" with stupendous views on either side.

Temperature

June, 66—July, 70—August, 71—September, 69.

The same records show that a great city in the center of this section has on the average only one day in June, two days in July, three in August and three in September when the thermometer touches or exceeds 90 degrees.

The air is usually dry, so higher temperatures are comfortable here that would be uncomfortable in the East where humidity emphasizes heat.

Southern California averages 309 days of sunshine. Summer is the rainless season so you can plan on perfect weather for your fun.

The world's most famous ocean fishing grounds, where champion anglers come each year from every section of the globe. Also mountain trout streams.

Ocean islands and mountain lakes like Italy's.

with strange mirage effects. In fact, a thousand unusual attractions to absorb you in their interest. And all these delights and curiosities within a circle with a radius of a few hours.

Don't say you can't leave business. Take the family and go! You'll never regret it, for this is one trip in a thousand. Make it now!

It Starts on the Train

The railroad trip itself is memorable—through the canyons, mountains and great plains. Every inch is teeming with our early history. This great vacation starts when you step on the train.

Nothing to Compare With Cadillac in Value—
Even from the Angle of Price

There has never been a time in its history when the Cadillac was not plainly the greatest value in America, or, indeed, in the entire world—even if you approach it from the angle of price.

In America no car is comparable with it in point of long and honorable history, or demonstrated performance-value over a long period.

No car that assumes or aspires to comparison with Cadillac is known in anything like the same measure for undeviating reliability, and dollar-for-dollar return in uninterrupted long-service.

No other car has ever won anything like the same overwhelming admission on the part of the public that it gives back dividends of unbroken satisfaction for every mile of use, whether the distance traveled be one or one hundred thousand miles.

Value expresses itself in the Cadillac not merely in countless miles of freedom from overhauling, adjustment, or repair, but—as a result of that freedom—in lower cost of maintenance which lesser cars cannot equal.

"After having been in bed half the time for a year with severe pains in my right side over the appendix, stomach trouble and bloating, which the doctors claimed unable to reach with medicine, and advised operation as the only remedy, my nurse advised me to try Marr's Wonderful Remedy, and its results have truly been wonderful, as I am now entirely well and strong, and at the last election worked hard to elect my husband. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. TINKLE, TINKLE, ETC., GO DEAR OLD "CHIMES"

Fine Production of Familiar Work by the Municipal Theater Company.

Tinkle-toned "Chimes of Normandy," this week's bill at the Municipal Open-Air Theater, shows the big Forest Park organization at its best in singing, and gives good acting opportunities to the principals. Were it not for the equal excellence attained in "Pirates of Penzance" last week, the present production might stand as the peak achievement of the season, now in its seventh week.

Last night, with a full moon beaming overhead, and with frequent breezes searching out even the depths of the orchestra pit, an unusually fine opportunity was given for enjoyment of the stage pictures and the music of the opera. One of the most charming moments came in the second act, when a group gathered in the ruined castle and sang of the ghosts whose approach was expected.

The "Chimes," most familiar of comic operas to St. Louis audiences, makes especially generous provision for its male performers. Frank Moulan is a virile and bitter graybeard in the role of Gaspard, the miser. His display of affection for his hoarded collection of other people's money was a strong piece of acting, and his pursuit of Germaine about the stage was a realistic showing of senile irascibility.

Duffy's Fine Tenor.

J. Humbird Duffy, as Jean the fisherman, has a role far from heroic which does not matter so long as each act contains songs well suited to his splendid tenor. James Stevens as the returned Marquis, in the costume of a Spanish hidalgo, sang for the whole hillside.

Charles E. Galagher, as a bewigged and pompous local official, shared the comedy with Harry Hermsen, who made one appearance, and delivered a speech on the labor question, moonshining and other topics.

The feminine roles of consequence were taken by Ann Bussert as Serpolette and Rhoda Nickells as Germaine. Miss Bussert supplemented her fine vocal work by comedy, as the supposed Marchioness, in a long-trained gown, whi ch she manipulated with difficulty and dust-clouds. Miss Nickells showed strength of voice and clearness of enunciation.

How the Moon Helped.

Of the four scenes, the last, a garden party, would probably have been the most effective, but for the aid given by the moon in the lighting effects of the second act, where an interior scene, by the forest surroundings of he open-air stage, was made practically an exterior one. The village fair motivated the two scenes of the first act, when the large chorus had its principal opportunity.

The audience was large, but several hundred more persons could have found seats at either side, halfway up the slope. Many stood outside the wire inclosure.

The "Chimes" will be sung tonight and through Sunday night. The eighth and last week's bill, opening next Tuesday night, is "Sari," the work of Emmerich Kalman, Hungarian composer, which has been seen in St. Louis but once, five years ago, when Mizzi Hajos, now known simply at Mitzi, played the title role.

AGREEMENT FOR 15 PER CENT CUT IN PAY OF DECK OFFICERS

Men and Owners Also in Accord on Changes in Working Rules to Pre-War Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A gentleman's agreement embodying a 15 per cent reduction in standard wartime pay for deck officers of American ships, and permitting masters to make their own contracts with ship owners, was formulated yesterday by organizations of deck officers and the American Steamship Owners' Association.

The new agreement, which was subscribed to by representatives of the Shipping Board, will be effective Aug. 1, and will take the place of a signed agreement which expires on that date. Changes in working rules aboard ship were also provided to conform to pre-war conditions.

HYDE'S CHAUFFEUR LIFE TERM CONVICT

Five Other Prison Inmates Also Go to Executive Masion Daily to Work.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—A convict, Charles Fromme of St. Louis, serving a life sentence for murder, has been released from the penitentiary for the time being, to act as chauffeur for Gov. Hyde. Fromme wears citizens' clothing and sleeps in servants' quarters on the mansion grounds.

Fromme was received at the penitentiary in October, 1915. He with two others had received life terms in connection with the murder of Frederick Soller, killed while resisting a hold-up in St. Louis in August, 1914. Fromme is said not to have taken an active part in the affair, but is alleged to have been present with the other two. He has a good prison recor, according to J. Kelly Pool, member of the State Prison Board.

Fromme has been driving for the Governor for several weeks, having replaced a negro who had received $85 a month.

Five Other Convicts Used.

Five other convicts go to the executive mansion daily to work, a guard accompanying them. One of these, a negro, waits upon tables, having replaced a Jefferson City negro who formerly performed that work for $55 a month. The other four, according to the Governor, work around the mansion grounds.

All but Fromme return to the penitentiary nightly under the surveillance of their guard, and sleep in cells within the walls, as do other prisoners known as "trusties," in whom the prison authorities have sufficient confidence to permit them to do State work outside the walls. Usually such privileges are intrusted to prisoners whose terms are about ended, and who are very unlikely to take "French leave." Very rarely are prisoners serving life sentences on murder charges given such opportunities.

Gov. Hyde said that the replacement by Fromme and the convict waiter of the two negroes whose places were declared vacant, saved to the State $140 a month, and that better service is being had, so he could see no impropriety in their employment.

Law Silent in Question.

The State penitentiary law says nothing about providing convicts for servants to the Governor. It provides for certain labor about the warden's residence, which is State property, across the street from the penitentiary, and further provides that convict labor may be used for the care and improvement of State property, which would include the mansion grounds. No provision was made however, for supplying a chauffeur and waiter to the executive establishment.

Considerable discretion as to the use of convict labor is left to members of the State Prison Board. Fromme was not detailed to Gov. Hyde by the board however, that matter never having come before it.

Pool was asked why, if the penitentiary authorities trusted Fromme to the extent that he is allowed virtually the liberties of an unrestrained citizen, he had not been paroled, and replied that the matter had been before it several times, but that in each instance the tone of letters from the prosecutor in St. Louis had stood in the way, as those letters always had linked three men, Fromme, Gus Koenig and George Smithsinger, as the perpetrators of a "cold blooded murder," not distinguishing as to the degree of guilt of each individual. Pool said that Koenig and Smithsinger had told the penitentiary authorities that Fromme was virtually guiltless of participation in the killing. Koenig now is dead and Smithsinger escaped more than a year ago.

SEARCH FOR TWIN BROTHERS, 26, COUSINS OF ROOSEVELT

R. R. Leaycraft Says Pair Have Been Missing From New York Since Business Discussion.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Search was started today by the police for Charles and Latrobe Leaycraft, twins, 26 years old, and cousins of the late Theodore Roosevelt, at the request of their brother, Reginald Roosevelt Leaycraft. The twins have been missing from their home since Monday morning.

Reginald said that after an unsatisfactory discussion of a business venture at their Wall street office, his brothers said they thought of shipping as seamen on a Transatlantic vessel or might go to California.

The twins are described as 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighing 150 pounds, of fair complexion, blue eyes and light hair.

Farmers Control Parliament.

By the Associated Press.

CALGARY, Alberta, July 20.—Farmer representatives will succeed the Liberal party in control of the Alberta provincial Government as a result of Monday's election. Latest returns give the farmer candidates 48 seats with the defeated Liberals retaining only 15.

ASSISTANT WORKHOUSE WARDEN APPOINTED NEW CITY JAILER

Director of Public Welfare Cunliff announced today the appointment, effective Aug. 1, of Richard Hatton, now assistant warden of the workhouse, as city jailer. Hatton made the highest average in the recent examination. Cunliff said he had interviewed Hatton and the other two high men in the examination and had concluded that Hatton was the best man for the position. He found, he said, that Hatton had improved conditions at the workhouse. The position pays $200 a month and board and lodging.

The appointment of Hatton was predicted by politicians before the examination was held.

Tickets for Disabled Men Wanted.

A second appeal to St. Louisans to provide disabled war veterans at the service hospitals with tickets for the Tuberculosis Society's annual benefit carnival and baseball game, Wednesday, July 27, at Sportsman's Park, has been sent out by the committee in charge. J. F. Oberwinder, chairman, says arrangements have been made to bring the men to the game and they are eager to attend. There are about 150 disabled veterans, and thus far tickets for only 10 have been provided.

Saving does not mean self-denial

TO save money you need not be miserly or deny yourself a reasonable share of the pleasures of life. Scientific saving is simply Thrift. It means arranging your expenses according to a definite schedule, so that the amount you spend is a little less than the amount you earn. You will find saving easy if you take the trouble to "budget" your expenses.

A Liberty-Central Savings Account is the most convenient and profitable way of taking care of your weekly or monthly savings.

BOUCK WHITE'S FRENCH BRIDE IS FREED BY COURT

All Evidence of Cruelty Is Stricken From Record as Immaterial and Judge Bases Decision on Fraud.

DID NOT TELL HER OF CLASHES WITH LAW

He Declares Sole Cause for Desire for Separation Is Her "Hysterical Homesickness."

By the Associated Press.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 29.—Supreme Court Justice Joseph Marschauser today handed down a decision in which he granted an annulment of marriage to Mrs. Andra E. Simon White from Bouck White of Marlborough.

The decision is very short, simply stating that the plaintiff is entitled to the relief asked for in the complaint, quoting authorities and directing judgment for her.

Throughout the testimony of the Frenchwoman only 20 years old, Boucw White, more than twice her age and noted as a radical thinker, but dressed like a farmer, sat with his eyes averted from the face of his wife. He showed little interest in the proceedings until at the conclusion he told the Court he had wanted the marriage to be a success, but now realized it could only result in failure.

"Even if she came back to me I am afraid we could not make it happy as it should be," he said.

"You may still have your wife when I get through examining the testimony," Justice Morschauser said. "If the proof of fraud on your part is not sufficient I cannot release her."

Only a Gesture of Despair.

White dropped his head and his hands moved in a gesture of despair. It was evident throughout the proceeding that much as his wife desires to be free of him, her pleasure would surpass his relief if such was the will of the Court.

Mrs. White was dressed as if ready for a stroll in Paris. A brown satin coat, a gray silk dress, immaculate white gloves, a gold pendant about her neck, a large black hat, patent leather slippers and a short skirt revealing silk flesh-colored stockings. She is of mature build and taller than are most French girls.

White took the stand for a moment to be questioned at the suggestion of Justice Morschauser.

"Did you tell your wife before you married her about your jail sentences?" he was asked.

"I did not go into that very much," he replied. "She did not appear interested in such things."

"Did you explain to her your political theories?"

White Makes Statement to Court.

"No, I did not say very much about that, as she never asked me about my work."

Mrs. White, under questioning of her attorney, told the story of her married life with White. She recounted how, when she refused to get out of bed at 6 o'clock in the morning the day after they arrived at the farm atop Marlboro Mountain, he pointed to a cow in the pasture and compared her with the animal.

"Did he not tell you that at first that cow would not obey him?" she was asked.

"Yes, and then he said that the cow had learned to obey and so would I, just like the cow."

Tells of Rough Usage.

Once again she told how that morning he seized her by the arm while she lay in bed and shook her, trying to make her arise, until her nightgown became torn and she fell to the floor; how he became angry when he found she knew nothing about cooking and had thrown the eggshells into the fire instead of feeding them to the chickens; how he struck her twice.

"And the second time I departed," she said tersely.

The honeymoon in the little farmhouse overlooking the village of Marlboro lasted only three days. Prior to this the couple spent three days in New York City after arriving from France on the Aquitania. Barring the sea voyage they lived together just six days.

"What did he tell you when you arrived at the farm?" she was asked.

"He said that he was master there and must be obeyed. The place was very dirty when I arrived. The Deputy Sheriff told me after I had left him that my husband had been twice in jail; that was the first I knew of it. Later I learned he had been arrested for burning the American flag and for a disturbance at a religious meeting."

Their Meeting in France.

White, who had gone to France to study pottery with the view of importing it into this country, met his bride at a carnival last February in Paris, the French girl said. She was masked as were the other revellers, and was walking with a friend, Mrs. Levy. White jostled them by accident in the crowd. A conversation started. He asked if he might call.

He went to her house and met her parents. They approved of him and the second day he proposed. From that moment the affair progressed at lightning speed. In April they were married.

"Didn't he say that he was afraid your parents would not permit you to marry him if they knew his views?" Mrs. White was asked.

"Yes. And in the six days I lived with him he spoke only of his revolutionary theories."

Justice Morschauser ordered stricken from the records all testimony as to his cruelty toward her. This had no place in the action, he explained. Only the question of fraud in misrepresenting himself to his wife before marriage was to be considered.

"You thought he was a clean upright American and he did not speak of this Socialism and all his other isms until after you married him? Is that right?" the Judge asked Mrs. White.

"Yes," she replied. "He never told me anything—never until we were married."

In another room of the Courthouse Bouck White discussed with reporters the failure of his marriage.

"I believe in the sacredness of marriage," he was saying. "I entered this one with all seriousness. But when the publicity came I knew that even if she was willing to come back the relation was impossible for us.

"It is really hysterical homesickness on the part of my wife that lies at the bottom of the entire trouble. That is a real disease and recognized as such by medical men, you know. It is even possible for people to be physically seriously ill with it, and I even suspect some people have died of it."

MAJOR ACCUSED BY MRS. BERGDOLL HAD STOCKS ACCOUNT

Loss of $7500 Last Year Shown by Brokers' Ledger Sheets Presented Before House Committee.

MRS. BERGDOLL TOLD OF $5000 PAYMENT

Money to Effect Grover's Release Handed to Bruce R. Campbell at Governor's Island, She Declared.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The direct charge that $5000 was paid to Maj. Bruce R. Campbell, an officer of the army, for use among "the higher ups" to obtain the release of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, her slacker son, was made yesterday by Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll of Philadelphia, to a House investigation committee.

Having heard the charge, the committee developed that on Feb. 10, last year, about 10 days after the date on which Mrs. Bergdoll swore the money was paid to the officer, Campbell deposited $4500 with Wassermann Brothers, members of the New York Stock Exchange, and $2000 more on March 3, all of which and more was wiped out by the end of June in market trading. The money was deposited to the joint account of the Major and Laure E. Campbell, supposedly his wife.

Maj. Campbell, who enlisted in 1901 and served overseas with the Rainbow Division, and who was Bergdoll's counsel in courtmartial proceedings, was not present at yesterday's hearing. He previously had testified that he did not get one dollar of Bergdoll money, but at the direction of the committee the War Department has ordered him here from Camp Pike to answer the charges.

$100,000 Demanded, She Says.

Called back to testify after Government agents had picked up the Campbell clew in a renewed effort to fix responsibility for Bergdoll's escape while hunting for a buried pot of gold, Mrs. Bergdoll stood firmly on her constitutional rights and refused to answer questions. But when assured by Chairman Peters of immunity from prosecution, she began her story, declaring Campbell first demanded $100,000.

"I told him to go to hell," she exclaimed. "He had tortured me into believing that my boy would be shot unless the higher ups were paid."

Questioned by John H. Sherburne of Boston, the committee counsel, Mrs. Bergdoll, step by step, told how she had taken the money, pinned in her waist, to Governor's Island, turned it over to Grover, who met the Major under the big flagpole at the reservation and delivered it. Later, she swore, Campbell told her that he had received the money from Grover, but that under the law he could keep no part of it for himself, and had given it to an officer, whose name he could not remember. It was her understanding, she testified, that it was to go eventually to a member of the court trying her son for evading the draft.

Questioned About Gold.

Pressed by Representative Luhring, Republican, of Indiana, Mrs. Bergdoll said she had not told the committee of the transaction before because she had forgotten it. Grover, she added, recently had urged her to tell of it.

"Have you still got that $150,000 in gold buried?" Luhring shouted.

"I refuse to answer such a question," Mrs. Bergdoll snapped.

Presenting a stack of big ledger sheets, Joseph F. Houlahan, bookkeeper for Wasserman Brothers, told the committee the records showed that Campbell had an account with the firm in 1919, which had been closed prior to the opening of the larger one in 1920. Of the $7500 placed with the firm last year, all was wiped out, with $415 still due from Campbell, he said.

While stationed at Governor's Island, Campbell, according to testimony of an army intelligence officer, maintained an account in a New York bank, depositing only his monthly pay check, against which he drew. The monthly balances, it was stated, sometimes ranged as low as $7 and never higher than $60.

LORD QUEENSBOROUGH MARRIES MISS EDITH STARR MILLER

Bridegroom, Whose First Wife Was W. C. Whitney's Daughter, Is Member of Paget Family.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Lord Queenborough, a member of the Paget family, ennobled by Henry VIII of England, was married yesterday to Miss Edith Starr Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Starr Miller, at the bride's home in Fifth avenue. The ceremony, which was attended by only a few relatives and intimate friends, was performed by the Rev. Dr. Archibald R. Mansfield of the Seaman's Church Institute.

Lord Queenborough (Almeric Hugh Paget) was raised to the peerage in 1918. This is his second marriage into a prominent American family. His first wife, who was Pauline Whitney, daughter of William C. Whitney, former Secretary of the Navy, died in 1916. He came to America in 1877. At one time he was a real estate operator in Minneapolis.

BRIDGE TROLLEY STATION OPEN

Has Been Closed Several Weeks Because of Bridge Repairs.

The Eads Bridge trolley station at Third street and Washington avenue was reopened for traffic this morning, following the completion of the reconstruction with reinforced concrete of that portion of the bridge structure used by the street car terminal, a distance of approximately 600 feet east of Third street.

The upper roadway and supports were rebuilt. The only wood anywhere used is contained in the block paving on the roadway. The time spent in the reconstruction was slightly in excess of 400 days. The work, which cost $200,000, was planned and executed by the Terminal Railroad Association under the direction of Chief Engineer Pfeifer.

Body Taken From River.

The body of a man about 35 years old was taken from the river at Franklin avenue at 6 p. m. yesterday and is awaiting identification at the morgue. The body was dressed in blue trousers, a striped shirt and low tan shoes and had apparently been in the river about two weeks. There were no marks of identification.

MADDOX ELECTED UNANIMOUSLY AS HEAD OF SCHOOLS

Board Names Acting Superintendent for Four-Year Term to Take Place of Dr. Withers.

MRS. B. F. BUSH MAKES NOMINATION SPEECH

First Woman Member Calls Position One of Great Responsibility to Be Regarded as Sacred Trust.

Renewed harmony in the Board of Education is noticeable in the unanimous election last night of John J. Maddox, who has been acting Superintendent of Instruction since Feb. 1, to the four-year term as superintendent, with a $2000 increase in salary, or to $10,000.

There was factional dissension over the retention of Dr. John W. Withers, predecessor of Supt. Maddox, and over his salary. One reason for his resignation to become dean of the School of Education, New York University, was the failure of the board to increase his salary from $8000 to $12,000. Further dissension arose recently over the dismissal of Miss Rosa Hesse, for years a teacher, because of her alleged defamation of a board member.

It was indicated after a board meeting a week ago that Maddox would be elected. It has been learned that a caucus of the board members was held Friday evening, and that the 11 present were unanimously in favor of Maddox. Dr. H. L. Wolfner, who is sick, was absent. The caucus agreed that Mrs. B. F. Bush, first woman member of the board, would be an appropriate person to nominate Maddox.

Mrs. Bush the Nominator.

In her nomination speech last night, Mrs. Bush mentioned the great responsibility and the chance for service in the position, characterizing it as "one of sacred trust." She said: "We have had many applications for different condidates, from different parts of the country, but we decided that our interests would be best served by a man here for years in our schools, who knows our educational policy and our peculiar educational problems, and a man of proper education for the position. I therefore nominate Mr. Maddox."

The second was made by John C. Dohn, who said:

"I think the selection of this office is the most important duty the board has ever been called upon to perform. After careful consideration I feel the only thing we can do is to elect Mr. Maddox. As acting chairman of the Committee on Instruction, I probably have come in closer contact with Mr. Maddox than any other member. He has unusual scholastic opinions, is straightforward, is possessed of clear judgment, with tact and diplomacy, does not overlook detail but has broad vision."

There were no other nominations. The 10 members present were unanimous in their vote, Dr. Wolfner and Jesse McDonald being absent. There was applause by the board members and the small audience, which included a number of teachers and officers of the board, when Supt. Maddox arose to accept the place.

"I want to express my feeling of appreciation for the confidence indicated by this vote," Maddox said. "I am happy that it was unanimous. I thank you for the opportunity to lead the great educational forces of this city. I have a feeling of appreciation for the loyal and faithful cooperation I have received from every member of this board.

Pledges His Best Efforts.

"I am accepting this position because I believe in you and because my faith is complete in that great body of teachers, principals and supervisory officers. I will look to you and them for help in maintaining our schools in their present high position. I pledge my best efforts, all my physical strength and energy and whatever executive ability I may possess shall be directed toward the great end—the welfare of our children."

It was learned that the applications of others for the position were never seriously considered. Maddox, who lives at 519A Dover place and is married and has one daughter, is the youngest man ever to hold this position here. He is 44 years old and was born in Kentucky. When he was 18 he began teaching rural schools there.

He graduated from Yale University in 1907, was a high school principal in Connecticut, and received his master's degree at Columbia University, New York, in 1912. He entered the St. Louis schools in 1910 as principal of the Blow School, later becoming principal of the Wyman School, which was used as a demonstration school in connection with Harris Teachers' College when Dr. Withers was principal of the latter institution. Supt. Maddox was made principal of Cleveland High School last autumn and was elevated to acting head of the schools from that position.

In his first position as a teacher, in the ungraded Kentucky rural schools, Supt. Maddox earned $37.50 a month. For a number of years he spent his entire income on books and tuition and he worked his way through National Normal University, Lebanon, O.

Stevenson Made Assistant.

Philo Stevenson, who has been in charge of the continuation schools, was appointed assistant to the superintendent, at a salary of $4800. He succeeds F. L. Wiley, who is to become Director of Tests and Measurements at $4500. This position was formerly held by W. J. Wallin, resigned. W. J. Stevens was made an assistant superintendent, the sixth one, at a salary of $5000. He has been a principal of grade schools. By these rearrangements and a manipulation of duties the board obtained a sixth assistant superintendent at an additional cost of $200 a year in increased salary.

A recommendation of the Joint Committee on Instruction and Finance was accepted, authorizing preparation of plans for two new Junior high schools, with the expectation of starting construction early next year. The new buildings are to be erected on Richard Wagner Playgrounds, Nineteenth street and Cass avenue, and Stephen M. Wagner Playgrounds, Hartford street and Louisiana avenue. These playgrounds are owned by the board and named for members. Wagner Playgrounds occupies the site of old Picker's Cemetery.

Commissioner of School Buildings Milligan was directed to prepare tentative plans and specifications for the new buildings. These should be approved within three or four months. He has been inspecting junior high schools in the East for ideas.

Henry Ford Tells How He Is Conducting His Railroad On Basis of Efficiency

Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, Operating Without a Commercial Agent or a Freight Solicitor, Has Reduced Its Freight Rates 20 Per Cent.

DETROIT, Mich., July 20.—The Detroit News prints an interesting account of how Henry Ford runs a railroad on factory methods. Ford controls the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton road, which last Monday filed a schedule reducing freight rates 20 per cent. The News article follows:

"Ever since the first of July the D., T. & I. Railroad, under Ford management, has been operating without what, heretofore, has been considered a railroad essential—the commercial agent or freight solicitor.

"Located in various rail centers throughout the country, generally housed in pretentious offices, it was the function of the freight solicitor to get traffic for his road. If the road for which he worked entered the city where he was located, he directed his main efforts toward getting loads from original shippers routed over his road; if his road did not enter the city where he was stationed, his main effort was to get traffic from other roads, either by offering, in exchange, traffic from his road bound in the opposite direction, or by any other means at his command.

"'We have changed all that,' Henry Ford said Saturday. 'When we took over the road the D., T. & I. had about 30 of these men stationed about the country. Basing our action on an experience with freight solicitors over many years, we abandoned those offices, called in every man and attached them to the traffic department to study railroading from an entirely new point of view—service to the shipper—and to work on special assignments by the traffic manager.

Traffic Their Object.

"The reason was that our experience had taught us that, while the freight solicitor once had been a very valuable part of a railroad's organization, he had, to a large extent, become a nonessential. He had been trained to get traffic by promising rapid movement, through shipments or some other desirable feature. But he was so detached from the inner workings of his road that he could not keep posted on what his road could actually do; hence he frequently promised advantages which the road was unable to carry out.

"The freight solicitor, years ago, had an opportunity to do a great public service by giving shippers expert information and assistance in shipping rapidly and economically. But, on this point, they generally fell down. They didn't care much for the shipper—their sole interest was in getting more freight and more profits for their road and, as a rule, they didn't care much how they got them. Instead of offering service the solicitor became a mere asker for loads. The result was that great shippers were forced to develop, within their own organizations, traffic bureaus which attended to every detail of routing of shipments. Every such bureau established tended that much more to make the solicitor obsolete; his function was removed.

"Now, we are teaching our solicitors that their first consideration should be the shipper and his interests—if we can give every shipper that uses our road perfect service, abundant traffic will come. We have brought all these men into the main office and put them in the traffic department where they can learn all about our road and what it can do and where they can work out ways to assist the shipper. A check is kept on freight movements throughout the country.

Promises Are Carried Out.

When a big shipment is seen headed toward Detroit, one of these men, posted to the minute on what our road can and cannot do under the particular circumstances that will govern, is sent to the proper point of contact with the shipment and there negotiates to get it routed over the D. T. & I. We want him to know just what his road can do and to offer its utmost service—and no more. We don't believe in getting traffic by making promises that we can't fulfill. In short, we are trying to put character into our freight transactions."

"Many changes have been made in office practice along the D. T. & I. Under the former management, office methods were those standard for the last 30 years in the railroad offices of the country. The new management put them on a factory basis. At Springfield, O., for example, the former chief operating point of the road, all partitions in the office buildings were torn out, making one big room on each floor. New desks and equipment were installed and all the clerical help placed in one great room with an office manager. Then a time clock was installed, the employes were told they were working on an eight-hour basis and were to check in and out on the time clock. All the stenographers were grouped in another room, with a chief stenographer over them. The function of the chief is to see that everybody has some work to do all the time. With the elimination of idleness for some and an overwhelming load for others—standard conditions in railroad offices the country over for the last several years—the work is done more expeditiously with a smaller force and no other department is held up while it waits for orders or bills of lading. Even the stenographers formerly in the private offices of the executives have been put into the stenographic bureau. When an executive wishes to dictate, he dictates to a machine and sends the record to the bureau to be typed.

"Within the last three weeks the chief offices of the road have been moved from Springfield to Detroit and, from now on, the entire road will be operated from here."

388,000 VETERANS ELIGIBLE FOR VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Federal Board Registers This Number and Has Accepted 258,000 for Courses.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The work of the Federal Board for Vocational Education in the training of former service men was explained today to the Senate special committee by Harry L. Fidler, member of the board, and Ralph T. Fisher, assistant director.

The board, to date, has registered 388,000 veterans as eligible for training, and of that number has accepted 258,000 for training, the committee was told. The witnesses added that only 108,000 had actually entered training.

Of those accepted for training 155,000 were entitled to training pay, of whom only 93,000 have actually entered training. Of the 65,000 accepted for training without pay, only 12,000 have availed themselves of it. Fisher explaining that the small number was due to their inability to support themselves without assistance from the Government.

The committee was told that of the 108,000 men entering training, about 41,000 chose trades and industries, about 30,000 business courses, about 14,000 agriculture, and about 11,000 professional courses.

At an executive session the committee drafted a report supporting the Sweet bill to consolidate soldier relief agencies.

HOUSE PASSES BILLS TO REDUCE TAXES IN STATE

Income Rate Cut From One and One-Half to One Per Cent, With Exemptions Remaining Unchanged.

CORPORATION LEVY REDUCED BY HALF

Schedule on Inheritances Reduced; Rate for State Purposes Lowered From 10 Cents to 7 Cents.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—Administration bills for reduction in special taxes were passed yesterday in the House and now go to the Senate. Some of the bills already have passed the Senate and go back merely for concurrence in House amendments.

The income tax bill, reducing the income tax rate from 1½ per cent to 1 per cent, is one of the more important of the measures. Exemptions of $2000 for heads of families, $1000 for unmarried persons, and $200 for each child, remain unchanged.

The corporation franchise tax bill, reducing the rate from $1 to 50 cents on the total capital and surplus of corporations, was another. The House refused to approve a provision in the Senate bill defining surplus to be the difference between assets and liabilities after the amount of the capital stock had been deducted, by which the Senate sought to relieve corporations from paying the tax on borrowed money in use in the business. It is expected the Senate will agree to the House bill.

The schedules in the inheritance tax law were reduced to permit the widow an exemption of $20,000 instead of $15,000, and each child an exemption of $10,000 instead of $5000. The rate was unchanged except for inheritances of more than $400,000, for which the rate was increased from 30 per cent to 35 per cent.

The House also passed a bill reducing the tax rate for State purposes from 10 cents to 7 cents. The administration favored and the Senate had passed a bill reducing the rate to 8 cents. It is doubtful that the Senate will agree to the House reduction, it being the contention of the administration that a rate lower than 8 cents will not profide sufficient revenue.

There was a strong element in the House in favor of a still further reduction to 6 cents, but this was voted down.

A bill reducing the rate from 2 cents to 1 cent to meet the interest and provide a sinking fund for the retirement of State Capitol bonds also was passed.

Under the House cut for general purposes of revenue, at 7 cents on the $100, instead of 10 cents, fixed by the regular session, a man with a residence assessed at $2000, would pay for general State purposes, $1.40 instead of $2 as at present.

DENIAL U. S. STEEL IS "GUIDING HAND" IN MINGO UNION FIGHT

Operators Acted on Own Accord, Superintendent of Mines at Freeburn, Ky., Tells Senators.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Operators in the Mingo (W. V.) coal field, in resisting efforts to unionize their workmen, acted entirely on their own accord and were in no way influenced by the United States Steel Corporation, Ernest L. Bailey, superintendent of the Portsmouth-Solvay Coke Co. mines at Freeburn, Ky., yesterday informed the Senate investigating committee. He emphatically denied, when questioned by Senator Kenyon, Republican, of Iowa, that there was any association between the operators and the Steel Corporation in policy toward union labor.

Senator Kenyon read a statement, purported to have been issued by W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist for the United Mine Workers, in which it was charged that the Steel Corporation was the "guiding hand" behind the effort to crush out "the mine workers' organization." The statement said the Steel Corporation, through its subsidiaries, was the largest producer of coal in West Virginia, employing more men than any operator in the region adjacent to Mingo County, and was planning, in conjunction with the Norfolk & Western Railroad, to extend its operations in the Mingo field.

First Oil Seekers Using Lake and River Route This Year Arrive at Fort Norman After Five Weeks' Trip

FORT NORMAN, N. W. T., July 14.—(By aeroplane and wire)—The first party from the "outside" to arrive in the Fort Norman oil fields of sub-Arctic Canada, by the river and lake route, during 1921, was that composed of J. H. Johnson, H. A. George, his son, Bert George, and Deome Lafleur, residents of Peace River and Edmonton. The only ones who beat them in were the members of the Imperial Company's flying party, who passed the canoe party overhead about fifteen miles from Wrigley, Mackenzie river.

The George-Johnston party made the long and wearisome trip of near 1700 miles by the Peace and Hay river routes. Five weeks were required to make the trip and while they covered it safely, George said he would strongly advise against any others attempting it on account of the dangers of navigating canoes in the Hay river. It was on this route that the three Bayes brothers were drowned and their overturned canoe was seen by the George party.

"We came down the Peace river to Carcajou Point, leaving Peace River town on the evening of April 28," said George, "arriving at Carcajou Point Sunday evening. We stayed there two days, finding the season well advanced at this point, with the grass fully three inches high.

Arrived on May 6.

"From this point we went over the Keg river portage, finding the road bad and having a very difficult time with our 1500 pounds of freight and a 20-foot canvas-covered Peterboro canoe. We made the 45 miles across to the Chinchaga river, a tributary of the Hay, arriving there on May 6.

"We found the Chinchaga a fine stream, from 200 to 300 feet wide, with lots of water, fairly swift, but easily navigable, though with some bad rapids that have to be watched pretty carefully.

"We traveled down the Chinchaga and the Hay rivers, arriving at the Upper Hay river post on May 6. We found the Hudson Bay store well stocked here, in fact we could have stocked up at this point with everything required for the trip, with the exception of the canoe. Traveling 250 miles down the Hay river we arrived at Alexandra Falls, around which there is a portage of two miles, and thence 45 miles on down to Hay river post on Great Slave lake, where we arrived May 17.

"Leaving Hay river in the evening of May 15 we were eight days going around the shore of the lake and to Providence on the Mackenzie river. This was a difficult part of the journey, as Great Slave lake was still filled with ice, though the weather was very warm, in fact was actually hot. The ice had not melted sufficiently yet, however, to afford enough water around the edges to float our canoes in places over the top, knocking out the ice here and there. We finally reached Providence, on the Mackenzie river, on May 25, and from that time on found the going easy down the Mackenzie river, arriving at Fort Norman, June 4.

Water Front All Staked.

"The Imperial Oil Co.'s aeroplane passed us on June 2, about 15 or 20 miles north of Wrigley. The weather was calm, the machine flying directly above the river, and it made a beautiful sight as it passed on overhead. When we arrived at Norman we found that practically all the water front had been staked then by people from the northern posts. Nearly every half-breed in the territory had staked either for some company or on the chance of selling out. Much of the staking is mere 'blanketing,' that is the staker has no intention of recording his claim unless he can find a buyer in the 30 days allotted to him, and consequently much of the ground now staked will be restaked later."

George said that one of the most majestic sights of the long journey was Alexandra Falls, the river being in full flood and the great sweep of water coming over the lofty limestone ledge with a mighty roar. Along the Chinchaga and Hay rivers, George said, there is a beautiful country fairly flat and heavily wooded, with a belt of exceptionally big spruce trees lining the river banks for hundreds of miles. The Chinchaga River is a splendid stream for logging purposes, he said, and the timber possibilities of this particular region are immense.

SCENE OF GREAT ACTIVITY IN FAR NORTH OIL FIELD

By CHESTER A. BLOOM,
(Copyright.)

FORT NORMAN, N. W. T., July 2.—(By airplane and wire)—Returning from a trip down river to the farthest point north, reached by oil stakers along the Mackenzie River adjacent to the Arctic Circle, passengers aboard the Hudson Bay vessel, "Mackenzie River," found the sight of the Imperial Oil Co. wells, 63 miles below Fort Norman, a place of great activity.

The Alberta and Arctic Transportation Co. vessel "Distributor" had just arrived in with more oil seekers and a consignment of freight for the Imperial Oil Co., the Mackenzie River Oil Co. and other concerns. Geologist T. A. Link and Surveyor W. H. Wadell, of the Imperial Oil Co., who were the first arrivals this season aboard the Imperial Oil monoplane, were on hand at the oil well, and Link went back up to Fort Norman with the steamship.

Gov. O. S. Finnie, of the Northwest Territories, who was aboard the Hudson Bay steamboat on her first trip of the year to Fort McPherson and return, paid a visit to the original well of the Imperial Oil Co., and was photographed in the derrick by a press correspondent. Finnie and the Government party took aboard a dump of the crude oil from the well, to be conveyed to the Federal Government laboratory at Ottawa.

Party Covers 1700 Miles Safely, but Advise Against Others Attempting It — Saw Flying Party That Beat Them Pass.

Find Practically All of Water Front in Sub-Arctic Oil Region Staked, but Many Half-Breeds Will Not File Claims.

Additional Land Staked.

According to Link, he and Waldell and the men working under them, have succeeded in staking and acquiring for the company an additional 60 square miles of territory, on which the company will do prospecting in the immediate future, as hitherto related in dispatches. This company is preparing to drill for additional wells in close proximity to the old well "brought in" last year.

Six miles up stream from the site of the Imperial Oil Co.'s original well, the big steamship "Distributor" was unloading derrick timbers, boilers and oil well-drilling machinery for the Mackenzie River Oil Co., which will drill a well at this point during the present summer. Across the river from the old well, on Bear Island, another big crew of the Imperial Oil Co. was busy building a derrick for the rig of the No. 2 well, which will be drilled right on the northernmost point of the island.

The "Lady Mackworth," a Northern Trading Co. boat, also was lying at anchor off the site of the original well, discharging more freight for the gasoline distilling plant, which is being installed there by G. P. Wells of the Imperial Oil Co., and which is already under construction.

Other companies which are bringing oil machinery to drill in this vicinity during the present summer are the Fort Norman Oil Co., which will drill one well, and the Northwestern Oil Co., which will drill two wells.

Confusion in Staking.

Geologist Link, of the Imperial Oil Co., confirms the numerous stories regarding recklessness with which staking has been done all along the river. Of the 700 square miles more or less already staked on both sides of the river, between Fort Norman Post and the site of the original well 53 miles down river, Link estimates that not more than 200 square miles have been properly staked out and will be recorded. Many of the boundary lines of the stakers are crossed and recrossed and tangled in the most inextricable fashion.

Much of this trouble has been due to the Government regulations requiring the staking of three square miles for the Government for every square mile staked by the original staker.

The frightful hardships of swampy muskeg, matted willows, creeks, ravines and tangled brush, inhabited by uncounted swarms of mosquitoes, encountered by the stakers naturally makes them more or less indifferent about the running of the lines for the extra three square miles to be turned over to the Government, and on which they must pay the rental, though they get nothing out of it. Out of this entanglement there are bound to come many fat fees for the legal fraternity in the future.

Defends the Regulations.

Gov. Finnie of the Northwest territories, who is making a tour of the district, defends the regulations of the Government very strongly with the one exception of that which requires the payment of rental on the area staked for the Government. Finnie thinks this might be eliminated and probably will be in the future regulations. He takes the attitude, however, that the requirements for the staking of three extra sections for the Government was done with a view to conserving the major part of the vast oil district now being opened up for the Canadian people.

Under the regulations which gives the oil company prospecting the first square mile the first chance to buy in the other three sections staked for the Government at 95 per cent of the highest tender made for them, Finnie says it will be possible for the Government to fix a royalty on production as part of the set price to be fixed by the Government in the sale of such lands. Thus the Government might be enabled to collect 10, 15, 20 or 25 per cent royalty on production of these sections in addition to the regular royalty of from 10 to 15 per cent, according to the richness of production. The whole intent of the regulations, according to Finnie, is to discourage reckless speculating or the tying up of oil lands by speculators while not discouraging legitimate investment, and he thinks the regulations are having precisely this effect.

AIRPLANE TIME FROM PEACE RIVER WAS 13 HOURS, 40 MINUTES

Machine Wrecked in Making Landing at End of Long Journey.

FORT NORMAN, N. W. T., July 2 (By Airplane and Mail).—Thirteen hours and 40 minutes is the actual flying time between Peace River and Norman, a distance of approximately 1700 miles by river and lake. This is the time as logged off by the Imperial Oil Co.'s monoplane on its recent flight into the oil fields.

True, the machine was "crashed" on making the landing on the water of the Mackenzie River at Fort Norman, and one of its pontoons and a wing shattered, but this does not render the long-distance flight of the crew any less spectacular.

The factors of travel by air over practically unexplored country, the dangers involved in making landings on rivers, with unknown currents and the fascination of watching miles upon miles of untenanted subarctic lands unrolled before them like a map were described today by Geologist T. A. Link of the company and Surveyor W. H. Waddell, who made the trip in by plane. E. G. Fullerton, a well-known pilot, was driving and Mechanician W. J. Hill of the flying crew also was in the party of four.

One notable feat of the journey was the making of a forced lahding between the far North forts of Simpson and Wrigley, on the surface of the Mackenzie River, without assistance from anyone on shore. In fact, no one was around to help, but when the pilot and crew departed from this point they were helped by an Indian who had been attracted by the descent of the great bird.

One wonders at the kind of thoughts in an aborigine's head when the big airship went hurtling down the river and aloft into the air again from that lonesome and desolate neighborhood.

Description of Accident.

Residents of the post at Fort Norman gave a graphic description of the landing and accident to the big monoplane on June 2 last. A crowd was on the bank when the big machine was sighted in the sky. A few minutes after 5 p. m. as the monoplane came gliding down it seemed that the machine would alight safely going down stream but when a few feet above the water the ship seemed to drop suddenly to the surface.

Instantly it bounded up again and leaped forward some 60 feet, but in that momentary touch of the river surface the right pontoon was sheared off completely, the moment the machine struck again it listed to the side on which the pontoon had struck off, the wing tipped into the water and the metal wing began to fail. As it filled it sank, the machine being gradually dragged down the river all the time tilting more and more.

"Get a boat, get a boat," shouted the men in the machine and boats and canoes hurriedly put to their rescue, but they would have been too late had it not been for the fact that the down-tilted wing, some 20 feet in length, finally touched bottom in a shallow part of the river and dragged along, preventing the machine from turning completely over in the water.

Link said the accident was due to the extremely smooth and mirror-like surface of the water when they landed, making it impossible to calculate accurately the height of the machine above the river. But the crew had achieved their purpose of getting Link and Waddell into the field first this year. Those two gentlemen at once proceeded into the bush with a party of men and

ANDERSON WOULD TRY INITIATIVE

St. Louis Senator Says He Prefers Adjournment Without Legislation to Mud Road Law.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—The Senate today adopted a joint resolution that the Legislature adjourn next Tuesday, July 26. It was introduced by Senator Gray of Carthage. The resolution must be adopted by the House to be effective.

This action followed a long debate during which Senators of both the majority and minority served notice on the House that they will accept nothing but a "real hard-surface road bill."

Gray, in closing the debate, said that the House only can do things on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, as on other days there is such a large number of absentees that hardly a working quorum is present.

He declared that, unless the Senate declared itself, the House would get around to road legislation some time next fall. The Senate was ready to adjourn 10 days ago if the House had moved apace, he said.

Most of the Senators have viewed the state of mind of the Representatives on roads with a tolerant attitude and have been hopeful that a good highway law would be obtained through agreeing that some amendments to the Ralph bill passed by the Senate be accepted.

No make-shift will be taken by the Senate, however, in the belief of one speaker, who asserted it would be better to go home with no road law at all than to adopt such a measure.

Senator Anderson's Plan.

Senator Peter Anderson of St. Louis, one of the conservative group of the Republicans in the Senate, for several days has been sounding other Senators on a proposed plan to provide State hard-surfaced roads under an initiative election in case the House insists upon the mud road plan proposed in its road committee bill, which comes up for engrossment today. Anderson said today he had ascertained that at least 24 Senators, six more than enough to control the action of the Senate on any measure, would refuse to adopt the House bill and would favor adjourning the session without any road legislation, unless a bill containing all the more important features of the Ralph bill is passed.

"I have suggested," Anderson said, "that, if we find the House will not agree to a hard-surfaced road bill, we adjourn and prepare a bill and submit it to a vote of the State under the initiative.

"The impression of those with whom I have talked is that such a proposition would carry because the real hard-surfaced roads which would be built under it would reach every populous center in the State and directly on these roads would on at least 75 per cent of the total vote of the State."

Studies the Road Bills.

Anderson, though not a member of the Committee on Roads and Highways, has given study to all the road bills introduced in both houses and is a strong supporter of the Ralph bill. He said the House bill was so drawn that it would be impossible to construct hard-surfaced roads in districts in which traffic requirements were great and that expenditures under it would be a waste of the bond issue money.

"In such situations as this," he said, "I believe in mutual concessions to get the right kind of a bill and in this matter I would be willing to concede almost anything which would not destroy the one purpose of providing a law to build hard-surfaced roads.

"The Legislature has not the right to waste the money which was voted under the $60,000,000 bond issue amendment. We want roads and we want them quickly, but it would be much better to wait a couple of years than to throw away funds on a lot of dirt roads which would vanish within two or three years.

"When the Senate had the Ralph bill under discussion it gave careful consideration to many amendments, some of which it adopted in a spirit of compromise because,

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, July 20.—Dixie Davis, the Browns' right-hander, went to the hill to make it six in a row for the Browns in the first of the series with Boston today. He drew Southpaw Herb Pennock as his opponent. A victory will put the Browns in fifth place.

Jimmy Burke day brought out a band and a crowd of about 3000. The Browns' former manager was presented with a watch, gold cigar cutter and a traveling bag by his St. Louis friends.

FIRST INNING.

BOSTON—Leibold out on a grounder to Sisler. Foster singled to center. Collins lifted to Williams. Foster stole second. McInnis called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Tobin lined to Foster. Ellerbe lined to Leibold. Sisler singled to center for his first hit in four games. Sisler out stealing, Ruel to Scott. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

BOSTON—Pratt singled to left. Scott singled to right, Pratt stopping at second. Menosky singled to right, filling the bases. Ruel doubled to right center, scoring Pratt, Scott to Menosky. Pennock sacrificed, Severeid to McManus on first. Leibold out, McManus to Sisler, Ruel holding third. Foster safe on Ellerbe's fumble, Ruel scoring. Foster stole second and went to third on Severeid's low throw. Collins was called out on strikes. FOUR RUNS.

BROWNS—Williams doubled to left. Scott threw out Jacobson, Williams taking third. Severeid popped to Scott. Penock tossed out Gerber. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

BOSTON—McInnis walked. Pratt sent a short fly to Williams. Scott popped to Ellerbe. Menosky walked. A pass to Ruel filled the bases. Pennock doubled to center, scoring McInnis, Menosky to Ruel. Burwell replaced Davis. McManus threw out Leibold. THREE RUNS.

BROWNS—McManus singled to left. Burwell forced McManus, Foster to Pratt. Tobin sacrificed, Foster to McInnis. Foster drew an error when he dropped Ellerbe's foul. Ellerbe fanned. NO RUNS.

CALIFORNIA NET STARS START INVASION OF EAST

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—An Eastern invasion of California tennis stars that will culminate in their attempts to win both the men's and women's national championships begins this week with the departure from the Pacific coast of some of the State's most famous stars.

William M. Johnston, former champion, expects to leave here about July 23 for Boston, to defend his title in the Longwood singles, and Willis Davis is also going East to play in the principal grass court events.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Mary K. Browne are leaving Los Angeles this week for New York to participate in the New York State women's championships, and another California player who is going East for the women's national events, is Mrs. Walter Ellis.

PURCHASE, OFF TRACK FOR TWO YEARS, TAKES RACE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A successful "comeback" after two years' absence from the race track, was staged yesterday by Purchase, a 5-year-old of the Rancocas stable. The racer, which broke down in the fall of 1919, while training for a prospective match with J. K. L. Ross' Sir Barton in Maryland, won the six-furlong Katonah handicap in 1:09 1-5, one and one-fifth seconds slower than the track record.

INDIANS PLAY YANKEES IN FIRST PLACE SERIES

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 20.—Possession of first place in the American League standing is at stake in the four-game series which is scheduled to open here today between the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees. This morning, the world's champions were leading by one game.

The series finds Manager Speaker better fortified with pitchers than he has been for two years. He has seven ready to go in against the Yankees—Coveleskie, Bagby, Uhle, Mails, Morton, Caldwell and Sothoron.

Hill-Ray Race Planned.

At a Toronto exhibition in September Joie Ray of Chicago, the crack runner of the Illinois Athletic Club, is to be matched against A. G. ST. LOUIS COUNTRY CLUB PREPARING TO HANDLE NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

Matters of course preparation and accommodations for entrants are not the only problems which the National Amateur golf championship tournament is bringing to the St. Louis Country Club. Members of that club, who are laying plans for the big event which is to be held here, Sept. 17-24, have been so organized that every detailed requirement is being taken care of.

One of the biggest problems concerns that of telegraph accommodations to supply newspapers throughout the country with news from the course, the National Amateur being one of the year's greatest sporting events. It is planned to have 12 to 15 direct telegraph lines from the club veranda and scores of messenger boys on the field to relay the news from the writers to the operators. A press house and large score board will be erected.

Another interesting problem is that of caddie provision. With several hundred players, and all of them of the top-notch variety, bag-toters will be in demand. A special committee is now lining up the best caddies in town for that week. The fact that the schools open at the time of the play does not make the task any easier.

THREE SONDAY PLAYERS TEMPORARILY SUSPENDED

Manager A. Steffens of 4396 Gibson axenue, Shortstop Joseph Ahearn of 454 Oakland avenue and Catcher Gus Eisel of 4222 Gibson avenue, all of the Sondag team of the Empire League, in the Municipal Athletic Association, were suspended today by Superintendent of Recreation Abeken, pending a meeting Monday with M. Welp, an umpire in the league, to take up Welp's charges against them growing out of a game in Forest Park last Sunday between the Sondag team and the Rhodes-Burford team. Four other players involved were dismissed without penalty.

Welp charged Stefens with inciting the spectators to an assault upon him and seven players of the Sondag team with participating in the at the game's close. All seven playassault in the clubhouse and outside. ers were present today for a hearing before Abeken. Welp was not present, but caled on the telephone

TENNIS NOTES.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament opens this afternoon. The entry list also includes the names of Ted Drewes, Woody Brown, Gus Weinstock and other well-known players.

More than 30 clubs have applied for dates on the schedule of exhibition matches by Suzanne Lenglen, the brilliant French woman player. Only 10 exhibition matches will be arranged. These will take place between Aug. 1 to 15 and Sept. 1 to 15. Mlle. Lenglen will take part in two tournaments, the women's national championship at Forest Hills, Aug. 15 and the national mixed doubles at the Longwood Club in Boston the following week.

Canada and Australasia will play their first round Davis Cup at Toronto, Canada, July 23, 25 and 26. The Australasian team, provide it wins from Canada, will proceed direct to Pittsburg, where it will meet the British Isles players in the second round, Aug. 4, 5 and 6.

Mike Gibbons 33 Years Old

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, July 20.—Mike Gibbons, St. Paul middleweight boxer, today celebrated his thirty-third birthday on a train en route to New York, where on Monday night he is scheduled to meet Augie Ratner in the ring. Gibbons said last night before leaving that the best birthday present he could get would be a signed contract for a match with Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

Seven double plays featured the Chicago National's 13-inning victory iver Brooklyn yesterday. The Superbas made four, one of which Third Baseman Johnston performed unassisted.

Centerfielder Maisel of the Cubs, caught six flies and had two assists while his teammate, Flack, in right field, was the only fielder without a putout to assist.

Another recruit pitcher was successful in his first appearance, Geary of the Cincinnati Nationals received credit for the victory over Philadelphia, although he weakened slightly in the eighth and Luque was called to his relief.

Bush of the Boston Americans shut out the Chicago White Sox with five hits for the second time in four days.

The Cleveland world's champions were strengthened by the return of Catcher O'Neill, and Pitcher Bagby, to the game. O'Neill, who had not caught since May 30, took his place behind the bat in the eighth inning. Babgy, out since July 4, hurled the last three innings, holding Washington to two hits and giving no passes, and received credit for the victory.

Midget Smith Starts Work.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Midget Smith, New York bantamweight, has arrived here and started active training for his fight at East Chicago, Ind., next Friday night with Joe Burman, Chicago bantamweight. Smith's sister, Miss Vera Smith, said to be the only woman trainer of a fighter, has active charge of his preparations for the bout.

Golf Notes

James Manion, State champion, is now contemplating attending the Western open event, which will be held in Cleveland next month. Manion says that he has never competed in a medal play tourney of any size and is eager to do so.

Louis Rosen, former Westwood champion, and G. L. Stern, a clubmate, are now in Washington watching the play in the National open. Rosen, who is well acquainted with Jesse Guilford and Francis Ouimet, will try to persuade the Boston stars to change their mind about not attending the amateur competition.

Eddie Held, the youthful Forest Park player, was not going well in the qualifying round of the Western play at Chicago last week; but demonstrated on the following days that he can play golf. Eddie scored a 75 to 76 on the Westmoreland course.

The regular weekly meeting of women players of the St. Louis District Golf Association will be held over the Kirkwood Country Club course, tomorrow, at 9 a. m. The program will include nine-hole bogey, nine holes gross medal, and three blind holes medal.

St. Louis is the only city of any golfing prominence which is not included on the itinery of Duncan and Mitchell, the British "pros." The forneigners take one jump from Chicago to Kansas City and another from Ohama to Memphis, skipping right over the gateway to the West. The St. Louis District Golf Association is one of the few bodies which did not consider the exhibition as a sufficient attraction.

Although there has been plenty of rain the past week, golf courses in and about St. Louis are taking on that brown and sickly appearance. The rains freshen the turf and then a relentless sun comes out, absorbs the moisture and burns the grass. Groundkeeers say that this is one of the hardest summers they have ever faced.

FAVORITES ARE WINNERS IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 20.—World's champion William T. Tilden II, Providence, former national champion; Norris Williams II, Boston; C. S. Garland, Pittsburg; S. Howard Voshell, New York, and N. W. Boxing Committee Holds Up Permit, Pending Inquiry

Violation of Police Board's Rules by St. Louis A. A. to Be Considered Monday.

By John E. Wray.

Whether the St. Louis Athletic Association, which sponsored Monday night's boxing show under the new police regulations, shall be permitted to continue holding exhibitions will be decided Monday night, at the next meeting of the members of the boxing committee recently appointed by Victor J. Miller, president of the police board.

Harry J. Kiener of the committee told the writer that the St. Louis A. A. had made application for permission to hold another entertainment in the near future, but that the promoters had been ordered to mark time until their standing had been discussed.

The committee, Kiener said, would decide next Monday, who was responsible for the sidewalk distribution of memberships, which resulted in an arrest just before the start of last Monday night's show.

Kiener said conflicting statements by the man arrested and by Manager Brady and Alderman Harry Uhlemeyer, who is interested in the club, had created a doubt as to the intent of the club to live up to the new rules. Kiener was not sure that the club had authorized the violation of the 7 o'clock closure, but said that the committee felt that somebody connected with it was guilty and that the organization would either have to get rid of that person, or its future operation would be barred. He declined to give the name of the club official involved.

New Rule Violated.

Uhlemeyer and Eddie Brady, matchmaker, denied that the club had anything whatever to do with the street disposal of memberships. Brady said the man arrested was an electrician who had access to the premises and that he had taken the cards which he had in his possession when arrested. Uhlemeyer did not even know the man, he said.

The sale or distribution of memberships after 7 p. m., is a violation of one of the new police board rules.

"The committee has decided that boxing shall be conducted right, in this city, or not at all," Kiener said. "They tried to flout us on the very first night the game was reopened. The committee will insist that Mr. Miller's rules be enforced to the letter.

"We barred 23 objectionable characters, Monday. We will continue to turn down such persons, even though they have acquired memberships. The committee will be on hand at every show to see to that."

Kiener was asked if any other applications for permision to hold a boxing entertainment had been requested.

Sunset Hill Men Interested.

"Not yet; but we expect others. Any organization managed by reputable persons, with proper backing will get a hearing," he said. "We expect to give everybody a chance. We have not agreed upon a limitation as to the number of clubs that may operate or the number of bouts to be permitted, each month. That must work itself out.

"We will welcome high-class men to this sport. I understand that a group of Sunset Hill Club members, business men, has raised a jackpot of $25,000 to launch a boxing club and will hold two or three first-class shows this year. I am not at liberty to name the men. If they go into it, they will do it right."

Returns from the first entertainment held under police supervision show that the Freddie Jacks-Kid Bandy bout drew $3400, of which the United States Government received $340 and the Police Board $153. The 5 per cent deducted from the receipts for the board will be spent on recreational improvement in congested districts. About $1000 monthly will be realized from this source during the indoor season.

The board's interest financially is looked after by an accountant.

WESTERN LEAGUE CLUB OWNER WILL ASSIST IN COACHING TIGERS' TEAMS

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 20.—Jerry Jones has been named Assistant Football Coach and Varsity Baseball Coach at the University of Missouri. Z. G. Clevenger, Athletic Director of the university, announced in letters to friends received here today. Jones will report here for duty Sept. 1 and will have charge of the Tiger line. Jones played freshman football and baseball at Notre Dame in 1914 and made his letter in both sports in 1915. He is at present owner of the Sapulpa team in the Western League.

Thirty-six holes will be played by the youths in the qualifying round today, and 16 will qualify for the first or championship flight. Tomorrow the first elimination rounds will take place with the semifinals and final played on Friday.

British Athletes Agree to Compete Under U. S. Rules

Seven Trials and Seven-Foot Circle for Field Events to Prevail Saturday.

INJURED BRITONS O

Stallard and McInnis Will Be Able to Compete for Visiting College Team.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 20.—The captains of the Oxford-Cambridge, Harvard and Yale track teams, meeting yesterday, to discuss the regulations for the international meeting of the Harvard Stadium on Saturday, found themselves in accord on every point. Suggestions from either side were accepted without question.

The Englishmen agreed to the American rule for a seven-foot circle in the field events, instead of the nine-foot circle to which their athletes are accustomed. It was agreed also that each field competitor should be allowed seven trials, the best to stand as the effort for final reckoning. The tentative order of events was made permanent.

Captain B. G. D. Rudd of the British team, said that he planned to hold trials today, to determine definitely who the two Oxford-Cambridge starters would be in several of the events.

British Invalids Recover.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 20.—M. A. McInnis, middle distance runner, and H. B. Stallard, miler, of the Oxford-Cambridge team that will meet Yale and Harvard on Saturday in a dual meet at the Harvard Stadium, will be in shape to run good races, declares Dr. C. Howard Dobson, their physician.

Stallard, who is suffering from a fallen transverse arch in the left foot, took a fast workout at the stadium yesterday, the physician said, with no bad results. McInnis who had a bad cold, donned running trunks for the first time and experienced little inconvenience from his trial runs.

Princetonians Work Out.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 20.—Princeton's track squad had a hard workout in the Palmer stadium yesterday in preparation for the international meet at Travers Island. Coach Keene Fitzpatrick ordered all the runners to go a bit over their normal distances, thus taking advantage of the weather, which was comparatively cool by the time the athletes appeared on the track.

Famous Athlete Trains on Pipe.

BOSTON, July 20.—Bevil Rudd, captain of the Oxford-Cambridge track team that meets the Yale-Harvard group in Harvard stadium, on Saturday, trains on a pipe.

"The big Oxford athlete puffs on a briar pipe almost incessantly. He smokes even on the days when he is slated for gruelling tests on the cinder tracks, and laughs at American trainers who say it will hurt him.

"Why, it helps me a tremendous lot, really," Rudd said today. "Over in Antwerp one of your American coaches told me to cut it out and see if it didn't help me. I tried it and ran third in the 400 metres. Then I smoked two pipefuls and won my next two events."

White Sox Buy Two Players.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The Chicago White Sox are starting early on their plan of putting a strong team in the field next season. Announcement was made today of the signing of Pitcher Lambke, a right-hander and shortstop Julian, both of the Kalamazoo club. They will report to the club next season.

COMMONS PASS TAX BILL AS LLOYD GEORGE GIVES PARTY

Opposition Forces Take Advantage of Absence of the Government Supporters.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20.—The Prime Minister and Mrs. Lloyd George gave their first garden party at their Downing street residence yesterday, to which the whole House of Commons and the wives of the members were invited. Partly as a consequence of this hospitality, the Government suffered a defeat in the House of Commons last night on the proposal to exempt co-operative societies from paying a corporation tax, which was carried against the Government, 137 to 135.

Many of the Government supporters had not returned from the garden party, while the opposition mustered a strong force, and raised jubilant cries of "resign," when the figures were announced. Austin Chamberlain, the Government leader, however, announced that business would proceed.

Why is saliva a mouth secretion?

THE answer is simple—to preserve your teeth. Of course, saliva aids digestion; but if that were its only use the salivary glands would be in the stomach.

LISTERINE

contains a mild fruit acid, thus making your mouth water; more saliva: better preserved teeth.

Listerine Tooth Paste also is a great cleanser of the teeth, making them bright and free from that dull, lusterless appearance.

Listerine Tooth Paste will give you a perfectly clean mouth and will help Nature in preserving your teeth. Better use it.

City News in Brief

RALPH WHITE, 18 YEARS OLD, OF 2127 Walnut street, a negro, was arrested in the rear of 2133 Walnut street yesterday, after detectives had given $1 to an informant to purchase drugs from White. The informant reported buying morphine. The detectives took charge of a coal scuttle, in which was a tin bucket containing a match box that held five small packages of what the police say is cocaine. White, the detectives say, admitted peddling the drugs and said he was paid $1 a day for the work by another negro, whose name he furnished.

MRS. REEDY AGAIN CAUSES ARREST OF HENRY ROWE

Second Complaint in Week by Widow of Publisher Charges Attorney Cut Telephone Wires.

Mrs. William Marion Reedy, widow of the publisher of Reedy's Mirror, again last night caused the arrest of Henry Rowe of 3736 Delmar boulevard, an attorney, at her tearoom, Manchester and Berry roads, St. Louis County, this time on a charge of cutting her telephone wire. Rowe was found at the place at 8:30 o'clock and released on $200 bond, returnable Tuesday. Justice of the Peace Stecker refused to issue an information until more specific complaint had been made by Mrs. Reedy.

Last Thursday night Mrs. Reedy had Rowe arrested at her place, saying he visited there in the morning and remained until afternoon, when he asked for whisky. This was refused him, and she charged that he thereupon chased her around the place and broke a chandelier.

Just before the case was called for trial yesterday at Clayton, Mrs. Reedy, Rowe and his brother, Thomas, another attorney, engaged in a heated argument when Mrs. Reedy said she would prosecute Rowe.

"I demand prosecution," Henry Rowe retorted, "and I'll call witnesses to testify regarding your whisky?"

Mrs. Reedy then informed Justice Stecker she would not prosecute the case, and Rowe was dismissed upon payment of costs. He has been arrested several times in St. Louis for disturbances, once at the home of the late William Marion Reedy.

Rediscount Rates of 4 Reserve Banks Reduced to 5½ Per Cent

BOSTON, July 20.

A REDUCTION in the rediscount rate of Federal Reserve Banks in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and San Francisco to 5½ per cent was announced here today. The new rates are effective tomorrow. They have been approved by the Federal Reserve Board.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Little change was apparent in the stock market today, trading continuing light and prices being generally firm. A better feeling was reflected in a general advance during the morning, but lack of response in the form of outside buying subsequently brought a reaction. Toward the close fractional advances still predominated. Call money continued to rule at 6 per cent.

Exchange Is Lower.

"Another shift occurred in the foreign exchange market, those wishing to sell the European exchanges finding it necessary to make their offerings at lower prices in order to attract any bids at all. Sterling lost nearly 2 cents at $3.57¾ before demand came in sufficient to cut the loss to 1¼ cents at $3.58½. French francs meanwhile were 5 points lower at 7.74½ cents and German marks were 1½ points off at 1.29 cents. The same tendency was prevalent throughout the continental group and the South American currencies were again priced lower, Argentine pesos being offered at 28½ cents. The Canadian dollar, on the other hand was firm at 88½ cents. Cables from Paris report the announcement by the Reparation Commission that the German Government has paid another 2,000,000 gold marks in European currencies on account of its outstanding three months bills. It is possible that these payments have contributed to the supply of European exchange which is now apparent in the market.

The Steel Industry.

"What is likely to happen in the steel industry when a real revival of demand appears is well illustrated by the events of the past week. Thus a moderate amount of new business resulted in prices substantially below the recently announced level. Sheets plates and bars were quoted as much as 15 per cent below the supposedly ruling prices, and Eastern Pennsylvania furnaces, according to the Iron Age, cut pig iron prices by as much as $1 a ton. Active competition between the Steel Corporation and the independents in the Chicago district meanwhile resulted in abandonment of prices based on Pittsburg. These developments emphasize the eagerness of mills to obtain something to keep an organization in existence. Even when a substantially larger volume of business apears, however, equal eagerness may be expected, since economy and the ability to quote low prices depends on a high rate of plant operation. As a considerable time is likely to pass before the volume of business sufficient to occupy the entire capacity of the country will be available, a somewhat protracted period of intensive competition may be expected.

"A measure of dubious comfort may be obtained from the reports that Belgian steel mills are now filled up with foreign orders for some months ahead. German works are also stated to be 'booked to a degree which will make them less of menance to Americ anmills.'"

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Operations for the rise, such as they were, in today's stock market were confined to a dozen or so stocks. Among these were the leather and boot and shoe group, American Woolen and the rubber shares. Business with the equipment companies has not changed, but it is expected to after the Government project for funding the claims against the railroads and paying the half million dollars into the railroad treasuries, as the remainder of the guaranty obligations has been put through.

The general movement was extremely sluggish. Short covering went on in a desultory way for the first hour or so. Then it stopped and as soon as the demand to retire short contracts was over the advance halted and prices sagged off again, with some fresh selling in the motors and one or two other quarters.

The foreign exchanges, after yesterday's recovery, started down again, but there was no repetition of the severe declines of recent weeks.

Grain options were weaker and cotton, after a series of irregular fluctuations, finally came down a bit.

Trading in stocks was extremely dull all through the afternoon. Railway stocks, awaiting favorable news from Washington, were persistently steady, while the industrials were generally off from the high prices of the forenoon. The weekly Iron Age review stated that the market for most steel products was getting well below the new official level established a fortnight ago, but that this was having the effect of stimulating buying, especially for railroads and structural account.

Pullman Company.

Pullman directors took the action the street expected today by declaring the regular dividend. No statement was given out regarding earnings or business prospects.

The Bond Market.

The only new issue of consequence brought out this morning was the $2,000,000 Province of British Columbia 5-year 6 per cent gold bonds.

The general bond market was strong, with a very fair investment demand, especially for some of the railway issues. The new Burlington collateral 6½s, which were guaranteed jointly by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, crossed 99, bringing them up to their high record. The Great Northern 7s were stronger sympathetically. Pennsylvania 6½s got above 98 again and have now retraced nearly all the ground lost since they were brought out. Medium termed equipments like the Pennsylvania 7s, Chicago & Northwestern 7s and the New York Central 7s were all in demand. St. Louis & San Francisco issues were heavily dealt in, with the income 6s around 54, the adjustment 6s around 68½ and the prior lien 4s at 61.

Chesapeake & Ohio convertibles, both 5s and 4½s, were fractionally higher and so were Southern Pacific convertible 4s. West Shore 4s gained a point to 71½, and a block of Minneapolis and St. Louis 4s were taken at 40½, an advance of a quarter of a point from yesterday.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7½s had a further recovery to 90⅝, and Cuba Cane Sugar convertible 7s rose another point and a half to 65½. This brought them up more than 8 points from their recent low. Kelly-Springfield 8s were heavy at 94. Pacific Gas and Electric 5s continued to be taken at 78 and United States Rubber 7½s held at par. Further slight advances occurred in the third and fourth Liberty loan.

CURB TRADE IS LARGER AND MARKET STEADY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Dealings were somewhat larger on the curb exchange today and prices were generally steady, though there were some exceptions. Commission houses reported a slight increase in outside participation, and there were also signs of activity on the part of pools. Traders followed along on the advance in some stocks, but took profits before the end of the day.

The low priced issues were the favorites, with United States Steamship and United States Ship Corporation the leaders. There was a better feeling in the motors. Durant Motors was the feature, with an advance of several points. Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco were higher. Profit taking sales caused an easier tendency in Glen Alden Coal. United Retail Candy, United Profit Sharing and Swedish Co were quiet but steady.

In the mining department Eureka Croesus and Boston and Montana were the leaders on a fair demand from Boston houses.

COTTON FUTURES SELL OFF IN NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 20.—Lower prices were scored in the cotton market early today as a result of poor cables and local Wall street selling. The opening was barely steady at 7 or more points decline and in subsequent transactions, notwithstanding support from New Orleans and the Atlantic States, based on showery weather, the market eased off to 12.75c for October and 13.18c for December, or 10 to 14 points net lower. Scattered trade buying and further favorable reports from textile centers failed to help the market, which, towards the end of the first hour, was easy.

Although the first impression of the weekly Government report was bearish, a subsequent perusal of details showed such pronounced activity by boll weevil that the market shortly improved and at midday had a very steady undertone around 12.92c for October and 13.30c for December, or a few points above the previous close.

Subsequently the market felt renewed pressure from Wall street and local sources which, in the absence of outside supporting orders, caused another weak spot and at 2 o'clock October was back to 12.75c and December to 13.19c, or 10 to 14 points under the previous close.

Cotton spot quiet; middling, 12.70c.

LOWER PRICE RANGE IN LOCAL GRAIN MARKET

Grain futures closed lower on the Merchants' Exchange today. Forecast of hot weather for spring wheat country and indications export sales failed to hold the market. Crop reports were more favorable. Cash prices tended lower.

Reports of export sales yesterday lent support to wheat for a time today, but the freight situation at Chicago, together with more favorable weather in the Northwest later brought lower prices. Japan was said to have been a buyer of wheat yesterday. The situation at Chicago was taken as bearish, the possibility of resale of some grain in cars overhanging the market. Corn futures also ranged lower.

St. Louis grain receipts today were: Wheat, 303 cars local and 99 through; corn, 29 cars local and 17 through; oats, 32 cars local and 9 through; hay, 298 tons local and 187 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators today were: Wheat, 577,941; corn, 323,551; oats, 27,646.

Opening grain prices were: St. Louis—July wheat, $1.25½; September wheat, $1.25¾@1.26¾; December wheat, $1.30½; September corn, 59½c; December corn, 59c; September oats, 41c a.

Chicago—July wheat, $1.27¼@1.27¼; September wheat, $1.28@1.29¼; December wheat, $1.32@1.32¾; July corn, 64¾c; September corn, 62½@62⅝c; December corn, 61¼@61¾c; July oats, 40½c; September oats, 42⅝@42½c; December oats, 45@45¾c.

Clearances today were: Wheat, 364,000 bu; corn, 103,000; oats, 36,000; flour, 128,000; wheat and flour, 526,000 bu.

Comparative primary receipts today were: Wheat, 489,000 today; 1,928,000 last week; 3,000 last year. Corn, 60,000 today; 3,000 last week; 43,000 last year. Oats, 000 today; 552,000 last week, 46,000 last year.

Comparative primary shipments were: Wheat, 1,239,000 today; 736,000 last week; 000 last year. Corn, 825,000 today; 000 last week; 385,000 last year. Oats, 000 today; 671,000 last week; 352,000 last year.

LOWER PRICE TENDENCY TO GRAIN AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 20.—Possibilities of a railroad embargo aginst grain shipments to Chicago had a bearish influence on the wheat market today. It was estimated that 2000 carloads of wheat were on track here unloaded. Cool dry weather in the spring crop belt tended also to ease prices. Opening quotations which ranged from ¼c decline to ⅝c advance, with Sept. $1.28 to $1.29⅛ and Dec. $1.32 to $1.32¾ were followed by material setbacks all around.

Subsequently, forecasts of hot weather northwest rallied the market and so, too, did indications of liberal export business. The effect, however, was only transient. Prices closed heavy, 1⅝c to 3c net lower, with September $1.25¾ to $1.26, and December, $1.29¾ to $1.29½.

Corn was easier with wheat after opening, ¼c to ⅝c lower, including Sept. at 61⅝c to 62½c. The market rallied little but then sagged lower than before.

Crop reports were favorable and the market lacked support. The close was weak, ¼c to 1⅛@¼c net lower, with September 61⅛@61¼c to 61⅜@61⅞c.

Oats were relatively firm owing to large export sales at the seaboard. Prices started ⅛c to ⅝c higher, Sept. 42⅜c to 42½c, but later showed slight losses.

Lower quotations on hogs acted as a weight on provisions.

Butcher cows and canners—Good to choice cows, $5.25@6.50; medium to good cows, $4.25@5.25; plain to medium cows, $3@4.25.

HOGS—A dull opening in hogs revealed a 10c to 15c decline for the most part. Some later sales showed as much as a quarter lower. Packers and a big Eastern order strengthened the competition, and the trade snapped up, closing not over 5c to 10c off. Top was $10.80, with bulk of sales from $10.55@10.75. Medium and strong weights sold from $10.35@10.50, the latter price for 230 to 240 pounds. Chicago coming higher was also a factor in strengthening the market late.

SHEEP—Prices were much the same as on Tuesday, but the market was a little irregular, with best lambs at $8.75@9.25, fair grades $8@8.65, culls at $3.75@4.50, mutton sheep $3@4 and bucks $2.

HORSES—Wednesday horse market very quiet, with not enough stock to justify holding auction. At auction yesterday 60 mules, mostly on the in-between order, sold at an average of $40@45.

while not improving the bill, this did not greatly injure it. Others were rejected because they would have ruined the measure. When the Senate passed the bill, it passed what is believed to be a good bill, one which was fair to every section of the State and which provided a system under which good roads could be built. It is my opinion that the Senate in agreeing to such amendments as were adopted went just about as far as it could go.

Kind of Law He Favors.

"I think the Senate will stand pat on that bill. If the House will not accept it we can adjourn without enacting a road law. It i snot exactly the road law I would want and I am of the opinion that if it is rejected it will be impossible to get a law which will be more to the liking of St. Louis, Kanas City, St. Joseph and other larger cities and towns of the State.

"Throughout this special session of the Legislature the members from the cities have sat back in a spirit of letting the rural districts have everything within reason. We have not insisted upon what I consider to be our rights. We will pay by far the largest part of the bonds, because the money to pay for them will come from the amount paid for automobile licenses. The automobiles are owned principally in the cities and larger towns.

"I think we had the right to insist upon the expenditure of this money on roads which would lead into the thickly populated communities which will pay for them, instead of having it spread out over the entire State, but we have not insisted upon that. We have been fair, but the attitude of many rural members of the House has not been one of fairness to the cities. If we cannot get a road law from the Legislature which will be fair to us I am in favor of getting one that we want through the initiative.

Favors Malang Proposal.

"John Malang, formerly Superintendent of the State Highway Department, early last fall prepared a road plan to serve the State of Missouri well. To my mind, it, with possibly a few amendments, would come very nearly meeting the exact wishes of St. Louis and Kansas City, as well as the other larger cities and towns of the State. This plan provided for five primary roads reaching from St. Louis to Kansas City, from St. Louis to Joplin by way of Springfield; from Hannibal across to St. Joseph, with connections to St. Louis and Kansas City; from St. Louis north and south along the eastern edge of the State, and from Kansas north and south along the western edge.

"These roads would reach St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Joplin, Carthage, Springfield, Cape Girardeau, Hannibal, Jefferson City, Sedalia and every important town of any size in the State.

"The voting population of these cities and the rural communities through which those roads would pass is by far more than enough to our-vote the backyard sections of the State which are seeking to get virtually all of the road money and deprive the thickly settled parts of the State of their rights.

"We can put suc', a road system in the proper form and submit it by petition to a vote under the initiative. It would be only necessary to obtain signatures from eight per cent of the voters in 11 congressional districts. Undoubtedly we could easily obtain eight per cent in every district through which those roads would pass, and I believe they would pass through every congressional district.

"In my mind there would be no question about the success of the proposition at the election. The cities and larger towns are going to pay for the roads. Why should they not have the roads they want? St. Louis alone pays about one-fourth of the total amount collected from automobile licenses. Some 75 or 80 per cent of the license fees are collected from the cities and counties on the route of the Malang roads. Those cities and counties are entitled to consideration.

FIRST OIL SEEKERS USE WATERWAYS TO THE NEW FIELDS

Log of Airplane Trip.

The log of the airplane trip to the Arctic oil fields shows the following records: Peace River to Vermillion, May 30—a distance of 250 miles, covered in one hour and 50 minutes; Vermillion to Fort Smith, a distance of about 340 miles, two hours and 45 minutes; Fort Smith to Hay Simpson, June 1—distance 265 miles, three hours; Ray River to Fort Simpson, June 1—distance 265 miles, three hours and five minutes; Fort Simpson to Fort Norman, June 2, 320 miles, done in three hours and 15 minutes, taking out an hour and 25 minutes for forced landing.

During the flight the ship made two portages, that is, crossing over land for considerable distances, which means taking a chance, as in case of a forced landing, the air vessel, being equipped for landing only on water with the pontoons, would have been decidedly "out of luck." They cut off from the Peace River below Peace Point, over to the Slave River, a distance of about 20 miles, and they also cut off from the Slave River to Slave Lake, another 20 miles overland, coming out on Great Slave Lake at the Little Buffalo River.

In crossing Great Slave Lake the flyers came down and flew above the surface of the water at a height of only about 100 feet, to avoid a heavy head wind. During this part of the flight the machine passed over the canoes of the Fugl-Handley party, making their way to the oil fields. Later, after entering the Mackenzie River, they passed over the canoe of George-Johnston party, who led all the river parties of 1921 into the oil fields. In neither instance, however, did the flying men see the canoe parties below, having their gaze fixed on the horizon rather than beneath them.

The machine flew on the average around 80 miles an hour, though on occasions with the wind on her tail the ship made bursts of speed reaching to 120 miles per hour. According to the fliers when the aircraft began approaching the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, which run down the Mackenzie River at the mouth of the Nehami, the scenery from aloft was impressive beyond description. Prior to this a snowstorm was encountered at Wrigley Harbor, but the ship shot on through the pass in this range of the Rockies, which Mackenzie River flows through, the observers in the aircraft noted the peaks were still covered with snow.

"Mountains were on all sides of us," said Link, "and we kept climbing steadily, crossing the Black Water River at a height of 2000 feet and still going up. We could see the tributaries of the mighty river beneath us winding away up into their sources in the mountains, and thousands of lakes and small lakes and streams were spread out before us just like a map. By the time we reached the site of old Fort Norman we had climbed to a height of 4000 feet and from this vantage point through the clear atmosphere we could see the ice shining on the surface of the Great Bear Lake, 75 miles northeast of us, and the gorge of the Great Bear River through the Franklin mountains."

It may be noted here that the big all-metal airship fitted out with pontoons plus the baggage, gasoline and men in it was 4300 pounds; calculate the moment of the tremendous weight flying at a speed of from 80 to 90 miles an hour, and it can easily be realized how a miscalculation of even two or three feet in landing on the surface of the water resulted in an accident such as that which befell the machine and sheared off one of its pontoons in making the landing at Fort Norman.

The aircraft has since been towed down to the site of the original well 53 miles below Norman. A wing off the machine tied up at Simpson is being put on it and a new pontoon is being brought from the Vermilion Chutes. It is expected to have the craft in readiness for service again in about two weeks.

Approaching the Two Hundred Mark

The Honor Roll of the second hundred awards of Free Ranger Bicycles includes a total of 77 names today. This showing is as gratifying to us as it must be to the boys and girls who have acquitted themselves so creditably during this campaign, and to their parents and friends. We are pleased, also, with the number of new enrollments that come to us daily.

We want the enrollment of every boy and girl eligible to enter the campaign. Nearly two months remain before Sept. 15th, when the campaign closes, and the chance for success is still bright for every boy and girl who will

CLERK AT OIL FILLING STATION ROUTS ROBBER

Men Strike Each Other Several Times With Jack Handle—Abandoned Auto Found.

A man in a Dodge automobile stopped at the Standard filling station at 5050 West Florissant avenue, at 10 o'clock last night and said he had a flat tire and asked where he could get an inner tube. Marshall Stone, 21 years old, of 2518 North Tenth street, clerk of the station, helped him patch his punctured tube and went into the office and began counting the day's receipts.

The man followed him in with a jack handle in his hand, and attempted to rob him. Stone resisted and they fought over the place, first one and then the other having possession of the jack handle. The man finally ran out and drove away. Stone called the police. He had six severe scalp lacerations. He said he had inflicted scalp wound on the other.

At 4 a. m. a policeman found a Dodge abandoned on the common near Bulwer and John avenues. There were blood spots on the side. Scattered about it were a suit case, a cardboard box, several bundles of women's and men's apparel and business cards bearing the name of Theodore F. Taylor, Kansas City, Mo. There was also a fresh half loaf of bread and some sausage. There was no gasoline in the tank. The license number was 242723, which is of such recent issue that it has not yet been placed on the list at police headquarters. The automobile and other articles are held at the Angelica street station.

Jewelry Company Misses $500 Diamond Ring—Home Robbed.

The S. Ruby Jewelry Co., 701 Locust street, asked the police to look for a platinum ring set with five diamonds valued at $500 which disappeared yesterday. It was not missed until evening, but its disappearance is believed to have been connected with the visit of a man and woman early in the day, who looked at rings but did not purchase.

While the family of John Schmitt, 3245 Hartford street, was away last night the house was entered and jewelry and clothing valued at $300 taken. Damage estimated at $150 was done to the house and furniture.

MESSENGER BOY ADMITS THEFT

Took $35 and Street Car Tokens From Desk.

Richard Roy, 19 years old, of 621 Chouteau avenue, a messenger for the Westeri Uuion Telegraph Co. arrested last night at Ivory avenue and Schirmer street, admitted, the police say, rifling the desk of Henry Putney of 2343 Rutger street, a supervisor at the telegraph company, taking $35 and 40 street car tokens Monday night. When he failed to report for work yesterday he came under suspicion.

Roy, according to the police, said he had spent the money buying a watch, fob and ring for a girl living on South Tenth street. The boy, the police say, also admitted stealing a watch and two rings from his uncle, Frank Seltz, of St. Louis County, a month ago. He sold the articles, he said.

THREE HURT IN MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Two Men Thrown From Motorcycle and Pedestrian is Knocked Down.

Fred Roberts, 32 years old, of 4371 Garfield avenue and Raymond Willer, 15 of 4222 Easton avenue, were thrown from a motorcycle they were riding when it was struck by an automobile driven by William Dent of 5263 Delmar boulevard at Taylor avenue and Westminster place yesterday. At the city hospital Roberts was found to have suffered a fractured right arm and internal injuries and Willer cuts and bruises. Willer was operating the motorcycle, the police say, and was charged with careless driving.

Daniel J. Chernaskey, 24 years old, of 162 St. George street suffered sprains, cuts and bruises when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by Charles Stapenhorst of 5045 Thrush avenue at Twelfth and Locust streets.

The Staake farm, belonging to Henry Staake estate, containing 472 acres, two miles west of Schluersburg, St. Charles County, was purchased yesterday afternoon at a Sheriff's partition sale at St. Charles by Henry Teckemeier for $8000. About 125 acres of the entire tract is in cultivation. The farm was formally owned by Daniel Boone, who resided there when he first came to Missouri from Kentucky.

It's Easy Now to Curl Hair to Stay Curled

To curl the hair to stay curled, nothing equals the simple slimerine method. If a little liquid slimerine be applied with a clean toothbrush before doing up the hair, the loveliest wavy effect imaginable will be in evidence in three hours, and this will last a long time, regardless of temperature or humidity.

This harmless method is not to be compared with curling by means of a hot iron, because, instead of injuring the hair, it is really beneficial. A few ounces of liquid slimerine, which may be procured at any drug store, will last for months. The best way is to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. The curliness will look perfectly "natural," and the hair will be beautifully glossy, yet without the least greasiness or stickiness.

MAN HURT IN AIRPLANE CRASH IN FOREST PARK

Joseph Barrale, 26 years old, of 5236 Bischoff avenue, a laborer, was seriously injured last evening when an airplane, in which he was a passenger, crashed to the ground from a height of 25 feet in central Forest Park, near baseball diamond No. 18, while the pilot was attempting to make a forced landing due to engine trouble. He was taken to St. John's Hospital, where it was found he was suffering from fracture of the lower jaw, fractured skull and crania facial separation.

The pilot, John Hinchey, 23, of 19 Yale avenue, University City, an automobile dealer, suffered a slight injury to the right knee and cuts on the face.

Hinchey told the police that Barrale asked to be taken up for a flight at 6:25 o'clock and agreed to pay for the gasoline required. Shortly after taking off, and when at a height of about 75 feet, Hinchey said, trouble with the engine became noticeable, and he decided to make a landing on one of the baseball grounds.

He told Barrale the landing would be sudden and probably accompanied by shock and to brace himself for it. Barrale, according to Hinchey, in bracing his feet, jammed the rudder control, causing Hinchey to lose control of the machine, and it plunged nose first to the ground. Hinchey swerving it so that it struck on its left wing to prevent driving the engine back into the pit upon them.

APARTMENT HOUSE COMING INTO FAVOR EVEN IN SMALLER CITIES

Figures of U. S. Chamber of Commerce on 1920 Building Show Old-Fashioned Home Is Going.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The old-fashioned American home—the single dwelling with a front and back yard—is beginning to give way even in the smaller cities of the United States, to the modern apartment house.

This is revealed in a report on 1920 building operations, issued today by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The report, compiled in conjunction with the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows that last year 70 per cent of the families provided with new homes, got one-family dwellings; 11 per cent, two-family dwelling, and 19 per cent, multi-family dwellings. The same figures show that the proportion of multi-family dwellings provided last year, was largest in the small cities.

LANDIS DENOUNCES BONUS FOES

He Tells Soldiers He Would Fire Whole Bunch at Washington.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Stating that what he said might be reason for impeachment, Federal Judge K. M. Landis in an address before wounded soldiers at Fort Sheridan, denounced the foes of the soldiers' bonus bill and asserted that if he were President he would "fire the whole outfit" at Washington who were "getting in one another's way trying to pass on the veterans' compensation proposition."

"As one man who stayed at home in peace and security while you fellows were fighting for our lives," said the Judge, "I am against stalling off this bonus proposition.

New Baltic Alliance Likely.

By the Associated Press.

Choose Canada for Your Vacation

It is comfortable, the hotels, rustic camps and provisions for hospitality rising to a degree almost unknown at our resorts. Canada is a Picturesque, Historic, Legendary Playground, full of adventure and interest for tourists, nature lovers, artists, campers, canoeists, anglers, hunters, and mountain climbers.

While it is in no sense a "foreign" country, it provides just the change in manners, customs, architecture and general outlook which give a vacation its full value.

Let me send to you, without cost or obligation, Grand Trunk guide-books, with maps and illustrations. These cover the Canadian Highlands — Muskoka Lakes, Lake of Bays, Algonquin Park, Timagami, Kawartha Lakes, etc.; St. Lawrence River country, Quebec, Maritime Provinces, the seashore and the mountains of New England.

State, if practicable, what district you are desirous of visiting.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

ANXIOUS.—Apply to the Model Committee of the St. Louis Style Show, Community Center Hall, 1401 South Grand avenue.

MARY.—The quotation, "Write me as one that loves his fellow men," is taken from a short narrative poem by Leigh Hunt, entitled "Abou Ben Adhem and the Angel." This line is practically the significance of the whole poem.

H. K.—Consult some stamp collector as to the value of the English stamp, or you might get in touch with the president of the Stamp Collectors' Society of St. Louis, Henry A. Diamant, 5660 Kingsbury boulevard, on the subject.

P.-D. READER.—Roger N. Baldwin, former Secretary of the Civic League of St. Louis, is now director of the Civil Liberties Union, an organization devoted to the defense of free speech and assemblage, with headquarters in New York. Address him at 138 West Thirteenth street, New York City, N. Y.

F. R. A.—Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan of New York, is first vice president of the American Committee for Devastated France, which is virtually the only American relief organization now in France. Miss Morgan's home address is 219 Madison avenue, New York City, N. Y.

HOUSEWIFE.—In canning tomatoes, wipe the tomatoes, cover with boiling water, and let stand until the skins may be easily removed. Cut in pieces and cook until thoroughly scalded, skimming often during the cooking. The jars to be used should be well sterilized, then filled with the tomatoes and enough liquid added to overflow the jars. It is essential that they be filled to overflowing, and if there is not sufficient tomato juice, boiling water should be used. Introduce a spoon between the fruit and the jar so that the air bubbles may rise to the top and break, then quickly put on the rubbers and screw on the sterilized covers. Let stand until cold, again screw the covers and make sure the jars are air-tight. To can peaches, wipe the peaches and put them in boiling water and allow them to stand just long enough to easily loosen the skins. Remove the skins and cook the fruit at once, so that it will not discolor. Allow one-third of the weight of peaches in sugar, and two and one-half to three cups of water to each pound of sugar. Boil the sugar and water 10 minutes to make a thin syrup, so that the fruit will keep in perfect shape. Some people prefer to pare the peaches, sprinkle them with sugar, and let them stand overnight. In the morning drain, add water to the fruit syrup, bring to the boiling point, then cook the fruit. Peaches may be cut in halves or in smaller pieces if desired. Follow the directions for filling the jars given in the canning of tomatoes, adding enough syrup to overflow the jars.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

MO. OR ILL.—You would be entitled to a bonus from the State of Missouri.

J. P.—Write to the U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C., for rules and regulations and forms for making application for patents.

B. V. M.—The driver is not liable for the repairs to the truck if the damage was due to defective condition of the truck when it was hired to him.

J. M.—You do not have to pay increased rent, nor do you have to vacate the premises until after you have received 30 days' valid written notice.

A REGULAR READER.—We know of no state forbidding firearms in the home, but an accurate answer would require an examination of the statutes of all the states.

A P.-D. READER.—The speed of railroad trains should not exceed 6 miles per hour where there are no gates, in the city of St. Louis. It is not necessary for the Street Commissioner to notify the railroads to have gates installed at crossings where there are no gates, before the speed can be decreased.

EX-MARINE.—Under such circumstances, the state from which you would draw a bonus depends entirely upon the wording of the bill providing for a bonus, and Missouri not having such a bill, we cannot say. Illinois has not paid her soldiers a bonus as yet, as the law is being held up by referendum.

P.-D. READER.—A person must be a resident of the State of Missouri one year next preceding filing of petition for divorce. The liability to prosecution for wife abandonment after the man turns over to his wife valuable real estate before leaving, depends upon whether the wife accepted it, whether it was sufficient for her support, and whether or not the abandonment was without cause.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(Answers prepared by a physician of authority. Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given. Questions that cannot be publicly discussed, if showing evidences of sincerity, will be answered when accompanied by stamped envelope.)

A. E. S.—See answer to A P.-D. Reader, in this column.

A. B. C.—There is very likely some fluid effusion into or around your knee joint. Consult a physician.

A P.-D. READER.—The removal of tattoo marks is a difficult procedure and should only be attempted by a competent dermatologist.

M. C. K.—High blood pressure is not a disease, but a condition, which may be caused by a disease. Endeavor to have a physician find and correct the cause.

CONSTANT READER.—As now given the use of "gas" for teeth extraction is nearly 100 per cent safe, and most teeth can be extracted with its use. In more difficult cases the nerve is deadened by a hypodermic injection permitting of almost any dental operation.

ARSENIC.—You should see an alienist and lay the whole matter before him for his advice. We think yours is a nervous trouble. If you wish, and you will send a stamped and addressed envelope, we will submit a list of alienists from which you may choose. If you are unable to pay, go to a nerve clinic at Scott and Euclid or at Grand and Caroline, St. Louis.

LUCILLE.—Soak the crusts overnight with olive oil, under a flannel cap. In the morning wash the head freely with equal parts of alcohol and green soap. After the crusts are removed simple washing with soap spirit is sufficient. Then use the following mixture once or twice daily: 1½ drams sulphur precipitat; 20 grains salicylic acid; oil lemon q. s.; 1 ounce vaseline.

KILLING INVESTIGATED AT REQUEST OF BRITISH CONSUL

Daniel Williamson, Who Was Fatally Shot by East St. Louis Policeman, Was Native of Scotland.

A representative of the Adjutant-General's office of Illinois was in East St. Louis yesterday making an investigation into the fatal shooting of Daniel Williamson, 22 years old, of 2629 Renshaw place, by Patrolman Frank M. Beckette on the night of July 2 last.

Williamson was a native of Scotland, and the investigation is being made at the request of the British Consul. Williamson came to the United States from Scotland last November, and was a British subject. The representative obtained copies of the police report and testimony taken at the Coroner's inquest.

Patrolmen Beckette and Heilig were investigating an attempt to rob a house, and say they saw Williamson come out of an alley in the neighborhood. They commanded him to halt, and he ran. Beckette said he fired a shot in the air in an effort to frighten Williamson into stopping, and when he failed to stop at a third command to halt, he shot at his legs. The patrolman used a riot gun and the shot peppered Williamson's back and side, inflicting injuries from which he died in a few minutes.

HERRICK IS WARMLY GREETED BY THE RESIDENTS OF RHEIMS

Ambassador Makes First Public Appearance in France Since Presenting Credentials.

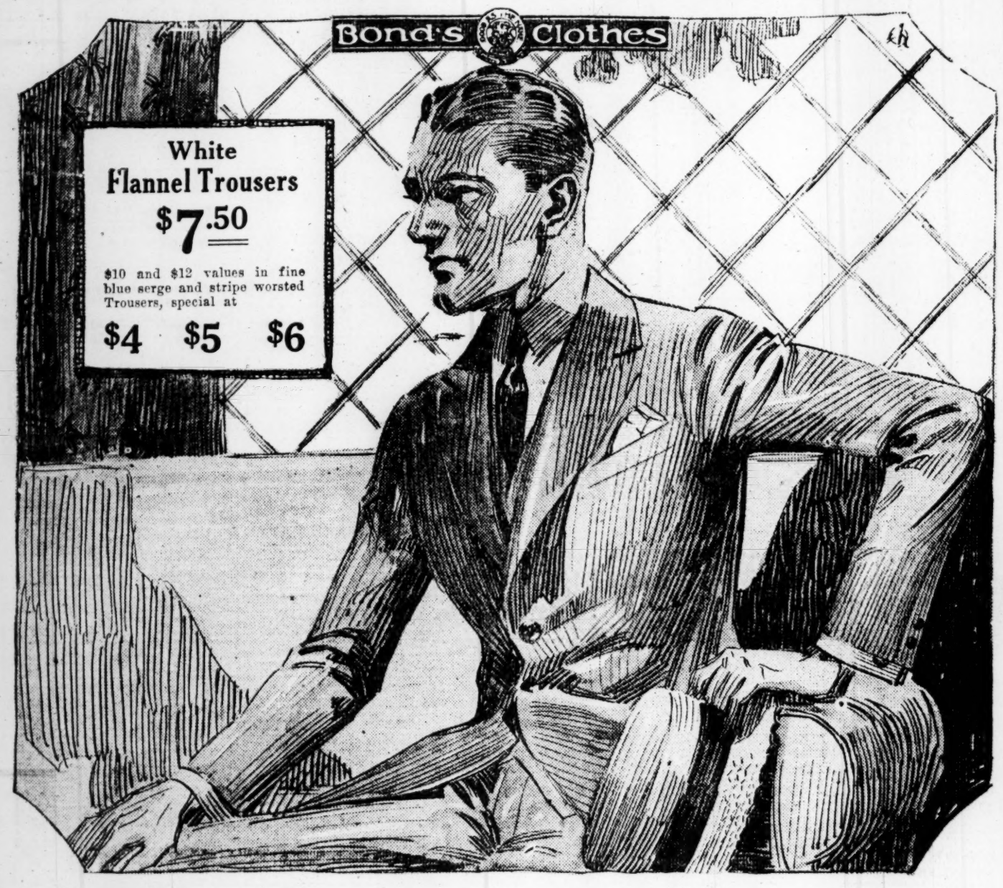

By the Associated Press.

RHEIMS, France, July 20.—Myron T. Herrick yesterday made his first public appearance in France since he presented his credentials as Ambassador from America, at the laying of the cornerstone of a library, the funds for the erection of which were donated by the Carnegie Foundation.

All the 80,000 inhabitants who have returned to Rheims and who could crowd about the confined space where the cornerstone was laid accorded the Ambassador an affectionate greeting and there was an emotional huskiness in his voice when he concluded his short address which, while being delivered, was translated into French, his auditors cheering it roundly.

"I take this occasion," said Ambassador Herrick in one part of his speech, "again to proclaim my unalterable faith in the lofty and practical idealism that inspired the men who baptized this soil with their blood that the cause of right and liberty might live."

Mayor Roche, in greeting Herrick and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, the latter of whom tapped the stone into place, thanked the people of the United States for their generous welfare work in the region of Rheims, which he calculated amounted to about 4,000,000 francs, not including the library, which will cost $200,000.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

League Not Rejected.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ONE who supposes that the League of Nations was rejected by the American people in the presidential election of last November, or that they have since surrendered that ideal, has not his finger on the pulse of our national life. There is no such moral heart failure threatening us as the abandonment of the hope that the present time will mark a new era in the history of the world, when a mutual covenant of the nations to settle international difficulties by mutual counsels recognizing the rights of all, will be substituted for the arbitrament of the sword. The election of Mr. Harding as President was no decision against the League of Nations. It was well known that to the real leaders of the Republican party, Taft, Hughes, Root and Hoover, the scheme for a League of Nations to establish and preserve the peace of the world, was held as the world's best hope. George Harvey reckoned without his host when, as our Ambassador at the Court of St. James he represented that the election of November repudiated the league ideal. His speech surprised both Englishmen and Americans and called for the indirect but unmistakable protest from President Harding. One of the strong points of the Post-Dispatch is that it stands firm to the League of Nations ideal. Mr. Harding is winning the confidence of Republicans and Democrats alike in directing his policies to find a way for attaining America's best hope, in harmony with the plan of the League of Nations, of which 47 nations of the world are now members. Night and Day Prices.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHY is it that a good many theaters charge more for nights than they do day? Is it to give the idle rich a cheaper price? We have to work during the day and can only go at night.

H. A. SMILEY.

Not the Meramec's Fault.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Red Cross has a slogan which it uses on its posters telling how to enjoy the pleasure of the Meramec River to wit: "The water is a good friend, but a deadly enemy." It is a deadly enemy to those who misuse it.

If you cannot swim you have no business in the Meramec, nor in a canoe there, unless you are carefully attended by a proficient swimmer. You have no business in the river within two hours after eating even a light meal. You don't belong there if you are overheated. If you cannot keep your head, stay away from there. These are simple precautions, but the annual toll of drownings would be eliminated if they were followed. To them might be added such things as, "Don't Rock the Boat."

The water of the Meramec is not treacherous and is not dangerous. The current is not unusually rapid, except in the rapids, where swimmers and inexpert paddlers have no business. There is positively no such thing as a whirlpool; the Meramec couldn't have an undercurrent because it is not a tidal stream, and eddy water as such is not bad. Neither do gravel bars slip out from under people and cause their drowning.

All these causes and others have been alleged in the press in connection with 1921 drownings, especially in the Globe-Democrat. They are wrong. Carelessness is the real cause.

FOURTH ESTATE.

To Continue Campaign.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

TEMPORARILY the proposed adjusted compensation bill providing relief for former service men is out of the way, but it is good news that the American Legion plans to continue the campaign designed to bring about enactment of the pending legislation.

Sentiment among former service men is in favor of the adjusted compensation, and wherever the matter has been voted upon by the people, as has been the case in almost a dozen states, the proposition has passed.

If Germany had won the war, how long would we have hesitated about paying the indemnity?

If the war had continued six months longer, would it not have cost more than the amount necessary to pay the proposed adjusted compensation?

BATTLE WILLIAMS.

Absentee Police.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAD the pleasure of witnessing the baseball game Sunday between the Sondags and Rhodes-Burford teams. When the game was over two to three hundred bullies followed the umpire clean across the field and threw everything they could lay their hands on, and fixed the tires of the machine so that he could not leave. All this lasted almost one hour. Now, the other day the Teamsters' Union had announced a mass meeting. Also stated that Father Dempsey would address them, and before the meeting was called there were 20 city police in the hall. Where were the police Sunday when this disgraceful affair happened? I wish they would keep the police in the park and not try to disturb men who are fighting for their rights.

ROBERT LYONS.

GOVERNMENT SHIPPING FIASCO.

The Government's expenditure of billions on its own merchant marine during the war is a closed incident. Nothing can be done with that situation but to charge off the loss. But with the publication of stupendous deficits and of anticipated requests for more barrels of gold to pour into the shipping sieve, there being no longer any war emergency as justification or excuse, continued expenditure becomes a very live issue.

Chairman Lasker reports as the net product of the past fiscal year's operations a flat loss of $380,000,000. To carry on the operation of the fleet this year Mr. Lasker will ask from Congress $300,000,000 more. How much greater the loss would be for the current year there is no means of knowing, since there is no system to guarantee against loss. On only one proposition can the Shipping Board be relied not to fail. That is to spend more money than it is given to spend. It still has an asset into which the Government, up to last December, had poured more than $3,200,000,000. By selling ships and other properties the Shipping Board's capacity for loss may be proportionately cut down.

The stupendous failure of Government-owned shipping, under present conditions and the system adopted, has revived the discussion of ship subsidies as the alternative policy. It is little wonder. If the opponents of Government ownership of public utilities had devised a stage demonstration of its incompetence they could have done no better than has been done. How much is due to conditions and how much to system is yet to be determined.

A Republican Congress has been in power more than two years. There has been both change of party and change of condition, with recently a change of administration. Why not a quicker change of system? Not a cent more of public money should be voted to public merchant marine operation until the system has been changed. There should be an accounting of funds unaccounted for.

HOOVER'S FINANCING PLAN.

If it were want of money alone which were holding back housing construction all over the nation Secretary Hoover's plan of making available for new building the nation's $22,000,000,000 in savings deposits might be hailed as a prospective solution of the first magnitude. It may be yet, but there are other factors which must be taken into consideration.

Consider, for instance, the experience of the Home and Housing Association of St. Louis, which went out of business with 26 of its 127 houses still unsold. The building, of course, was done on a plan which made use of the advantage of quantity production. The terms were so easy as to be within reach of many thousands who are now paying rent under adverse conditions. But the houses failed to sell readily.

It is not the question of finances, then, which alone is holding back building, but the conviction, undoubtedly, that further waiting will see a reduction in prices. The same psychology which makes business slow in other lines must be fully as influential in building investment, if not more so, because of the greater sum involved. Improved facilities of financing undoubtedly will aid when other obstacles disappear. The chief other obstacle is the artificially maintained cost of building materials.

JITNEY vs. TROLLEY.

When it comes to the case of Jitney vs. Trolley, there is something to be said for the complainant, Trolley. Receiver Sawyer of the Alton trolley line, complaining of the jitney competition, says it very well.

The trolley, as the receiver states the case, serves the entire community, running where the travel is heavy and where the travel is light, running at the rush hours and at the off hours. It operates under the authority and control of the State utilities body and pays licenses and taxes. It is owned and operated by a corporation and is responsible to the public.

The jitney picks its route where the picking is good, runs during the rush hours when the running is good and makes the short hauls which make the most money and make it quickest. They are bound by no schedule, are usually privately owned, are not operated under authority, pay no license and no tax and are of doubtful responsibility.

Enjoying all these advantages, it carries passengers for a nickel, which is less than the trolley rate, and takes business away from the trolley and threatens to put it out of business.

That is the way it is in Alton and in a good many other towns where the case of Trolley vs. Jitney is on trial.

Competition is the life of trade and transportation, if it is fair competition. There seems to be some point to the trolley contention that this sort of competition is not fair. If jitney transportation is better than trolley transportation the public has a right to find it out and make its choice, but it should be proven at a fair trial and under conditions which assure permanence of jitney service if trolley service is driven out. There is no assurance of such permanence in the conditions under which the case is being tried in Alton and other towns.

WARDEN AND PRISON BOARD.

There is cause for regret in the announcement that one of the new members of the new Prison Board to be appointed by Gov. Hyde will be assigned to the wardenship. The law permits the appointment of a member of the board to the wardenship, but it is not obligatory. We understand that Gov. Hyde holds this view of the law.

We have no objection to urge against the board appointee who is to be assigned to the wardenship, except the matter of experience. Judge Hill may be an excellent man and may make as good a Warden as inexperience will permit, but we regard it bad policy to combine the wardenship with membership in the board. The Warden is an agent of the board; he is accountable to the board, which must hold him responsible for prison management and for carrying out its policy. As Warden and member of the board he will serve as both principal and agent, as accountable to himself for his own conduct. It stands to reason that a board of which the Warden is a member will not hold the Warden to as strict accountability for his conduct and policy as it would if the Warden were not a member of the board. The Warden will have a voice in passing upon his own official work.

Gov. Hyde should reconsider that part of his prison program. He should appoint a board bound to the policy of separating the wardenship from membership on the board.

The work of reforming the prison system is not complete. The present board improved the prison, but did not thoroughly rehabilitate it. The contract system persists in substance, if not in name, and there are vicious relics of the old, unwise and inhuman prison methods. There are excellent men in the Governor's list of appointees. They should be free to work out a good system, aided by the best available expert advice.

POLLUTION AND BANKRUPTCY.

There is a cheerful, vital conclusion to be seized and shaken clear of the muck and sordidness of the relation revealed in the secret control by the Standard Oil Co. of two professedly independent literary and periodical publications, Leslie's Weekly and Judge. This is that 10 years of pollution of a well of public opinion led to bankruptcy.

The public could not be indefinitely fooled. There is a false ring and a want of convincingness in the subsidized and hog-tied publication that the cleverest of editors—no great editor will prostitute himself—cannot disguise. As long as the field contains honest and free journals of information, wit and comment there is scant demand for the tethered lamb of the oil or any other trust. The Leslie-Judge bankruptcy proves it.

ST. LOUIS TELLS THE WORLD.

When a city originates a quick and convenient delivery of merchandise and develops it until it has the best in the United States, affording exceptional facilities for the merchants of its trade territory, that city has a right to tell the world about it.

St. Louis originated package-car delivery and developed it until it has the best package-car delivery in the United States, with more than 1200 package cars leaving every night by through freight, filled with mixed shipments, which go forward on almost the same basis as express and reach destinations almost as quickly.

So it is appropriate and expedient that St. Louis tell the world, as it is proceeding to do, about its package-car delivery. The story of the St. Louis package car is to be told in 90 newspapers scattered over 18 states as part of this year's $50,000 municipal advertising campaign. Merchants all over these 18 states will be informed that it is to their advantage to buy their goods in St. Louis because goods laid down from St. Louis cost less and because they are delivered with express facility.

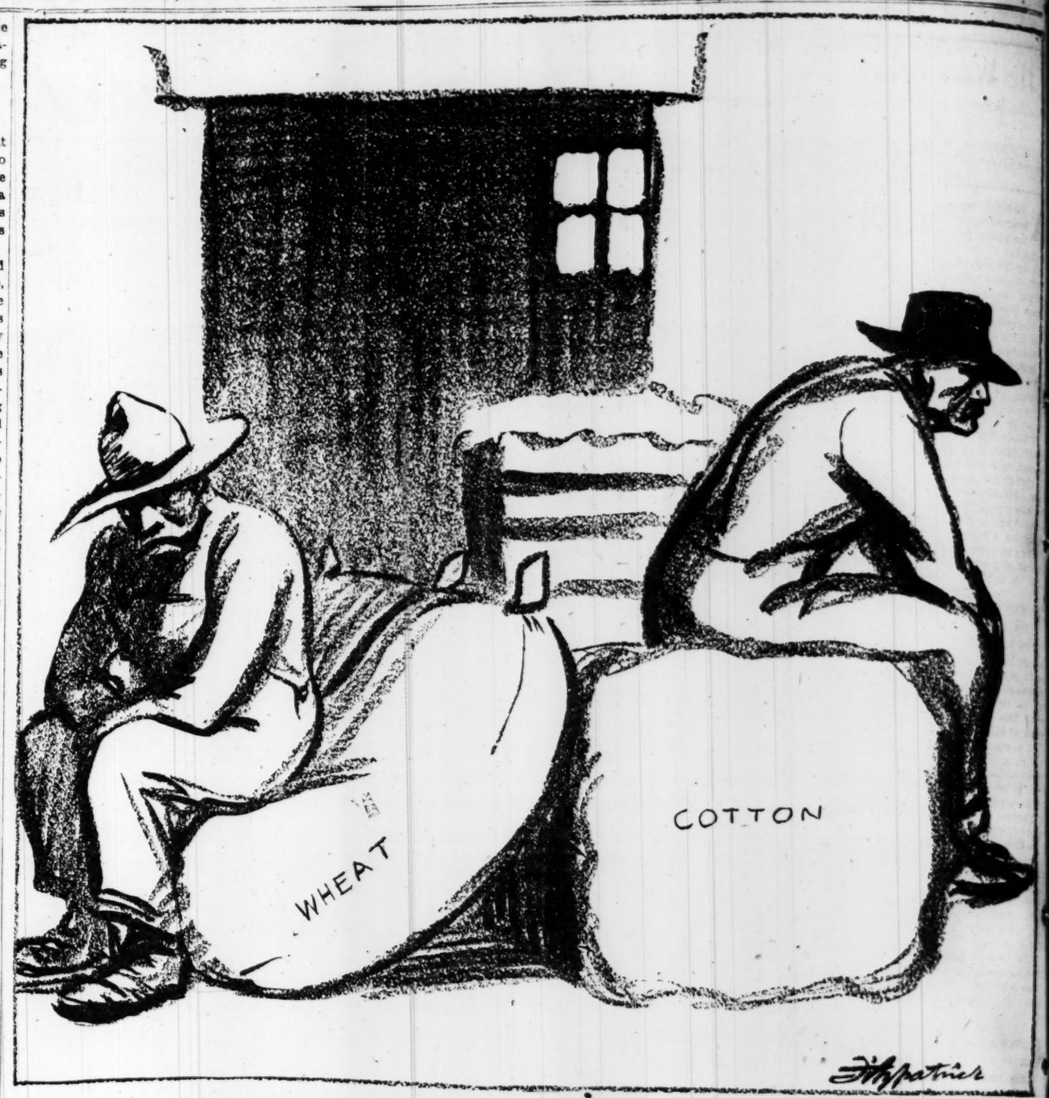

It used to be, in St. Louis, and still is, in some cities, that the merchant had to wait a long time, until a car load could be made up for the one destination. The package car carries different shipments to different destinations. The shipments are handled just like express shipments. Practically the only difference is that they are carried on fast freights instead of on passenger trains.

St. Louis has advantageous location and unequaled package delivery. Telling the world about it is doing the world a favor.

INSPIRATION.

THE song you last night sang to me,
Stopping my pulse with harmony,
Excites no rapture in my ear.
And who may tell the reason why?
Not I! Not I!

The flowers that gleamed so frailly white,
Under the shower of calm moonlight,
Tho' yester eve they gave me wings,
Today touch not the mystic strings
That set me free. And who knows why?
Not I! Not I!

O, who is there to understand
The coming of that ghostly hand
That gives or takes at will the flame
Of knowledge? Whose this phantom game
Or dark despair, of ecstasy?
I know not whose, nor why!

Dr. Dillon, who has known public men as far back as Bismarck, thinks Gen. Obregon one of the great leaders of our time. We have observed ourselves that whenever the General says something he talks common sense. This is also the quality of Gen. Smuts, who is for that reason also something of a Brobdignag in international politics. Dr. Dillon campaigned with Obregon for a few weeks. He says our treatment of the General and his Government is the outstanding injustice of Pan-American politics today. The Nation, which has fought hard for Mexico through the past six months, is madder than hops because we do not recognize the Obregon Government, and says the interventionists came within an ace of winning when we sent warships to Tampico a few days ago. One shot, and the thing had been done. You, gentle reader, are an American citizen. What do you think of our Mexican policy? Do you believe it ought to be dictated, as it is dictated, by Mr. Doheny and other oil capitalists who are using this country as a catspaw with which to draw chestnuts out of the fire for them? Or do you believe this policy should be dictated by the interest of us all, that we should be fair to Mexico, and should not lend our State Department, our army or our navy, to the questionable purposes of those whom we have always had to restrain in the United States? The disappointment in Mr. Hughes by persons who understand the Mexican question is very great. The Nation says what Mr. Hughes asks Mexico to do is enough to provoke a Pan-American union among the Latin republics for common defense against us. Dr. Dillon says Gen. Obregon would go down at the hands of his own countrymen the moment he acceded to the bargain proposed by Mr. Hughes. What does Mr. Hughes ask? He wants Gen. Obregon to give us a written pledge that Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution, adopted in 1917, and declaring the principle of dominium directum, or national control of the land, will not be retroactively construed. Gen. Obregon says he has not and will not so construe it, but they have a Congress and a Supreme Court in Mexico, and it is not for Gen. Obregon to say how any law will be finally construed by those branches of the Government. So there you are—with Mr. Hughes sitting tight behind his whiskers, Mexico without credit, Wall street rubbing its fat palms together in anticipation of the feast, and you and I, whose country is up to this abominable thing, doing nothing!

Sir: The following is from the Globe-Democrat of yesterday morning. It discovers to us the town of Cornerville, in Normandy, and ought to give comfort to those who want an anglicized world which can be regulated by English-speaking people:

> The action of the opera takes place in an old Norman village and opens as Henri, long an exile, returns to his home. He arrives just as Gaspard is trying to force his niece, Germaine, to marry the Sheriff of the village. Germaine says that if she must marry at all she will marry Grenicheux in gratitude for saving her life. To escape the marriage both Germaine and Grenicheux become servants of the Marquis. Papers discovered in the castle of Valleroi point to Serpolette as being the real Marchioness. Gaspard has concealed treasures in the castle and goes crazy when it is found out that he is the ghost that has been seen prowling about the place. He later recovers his reason and proves that Germaine is the rightful heir to the property and the true Marchioness and the bells of Cornerville ring out the glad tidings of the betrothal of her and Henri.
> There are three acts and four scenes in the opera. The two scenes in act one show the village square at Cornerville and the Hiring Fair in the same place. Act two takes place in the ruined chateau of Valleroi, and the final act is set in the garden of the restored chateau.

Not very many people seem to think much of the point that Mr. Harding's appearance before the Senate in opposition to the bonus bill was unconstitutional. It is true that Section 3, Article 2 of the Constitution, defining the duties of the President, does say:

> He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient.

Nevertheless, the Standard Dictionary says that any "specific act or course of procedure designed as a means to an end" is a measure, from which we may assume that the Constitution does not wholly construe that term to mean a bill which might be before Congress. Anyway, the service of the President can be as great in opposition as in approval of things contemplated or proposed, and it is captiousness to say that it isn't.

Sir: Muscle Shoals was so named many years ago by boatmen who had to apply extra strength to negotiate this point in the river where the water broke rapidly against them in their pull upstream. Its name in no way is connected with the nomenclature of the bivalve mollusk.

Even Henry Ford would have known this without being put to the expense of hiring a college graduate who couldn't have looked for anything else except a biological explanation instead of accepting an ostensible commonplace.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

From the New York World.

THE country's merchandise exports during the fiscal year ending June 30 declined $1,591,674,000 from the year before. Imports declined $1,571,852,000. The total loss was $3,163,526,000. This shrinkage within a year is greater than the whole foreign trade of the nation ever amounted to up to the year 1907. It is greater than the average total of exports and imports for the four years to 1911. If such a loss were applied to the trade of any one of the following years down to the outbreak of the World War it would not have left enough to have been worth recording. But more than a $3,000,000,000 decline in the country's foreign trade for one year is evidently not enough to suit the Republican majority of Congress. They want a bigger showing of the kind than that. They are now trying to jam through the highest-rated tariff bill ever known to the United States, in the avowed purpose of smashing imports as much further down as possible, and they must have intelligence enough by this time to know that the effect upon exports will be correspondingly smashing. Is it a $6,000,000,000 loss in the foreign trade for the last fiscal year and this which they seek? And 6,000,000 men put out of work in the same time instead of over 3,000,000 now idle from a year ago? Said Secretary Hoover to the National Shoe and Leather Exposition at Boston: "The hard times that knock at every cottage door came from Europe. No tariffs, no embargoes, no navies, no armies can ever defend us from these invasions. Our sole defense is the prosperity of our neighbors and our own commercial skill."

That is the plain truth of the matter. It is the obvious truth in the face of these foreign-trade figures. But how can such a measure of enlightenment at the administrative end of the Government be extended to its legislative end?

AMERICAN JEWS.

Henry Morgenthau in World's Work.

WE enjoy in America exactly the spiritual liberty, the financial success, and the social position which we have earned. Any Jew in America who wishes to be a saint of Zion has only to practice the cultivation of his spiritual gifts—there is none to hinder him. Any Jew in America who seeks material reward has only to cultivate the powers of his mind and character—there are no barriers between him and achievement. Any Jew in America who yearns for social position has only to cultivate his manners—there are no insurmountable discriminations here against true gentlemen. The Jews of France have found France to be their Zion. The Jews of England have found England to be their Zion. We Jews of America have found America to be our Zion. Therefore, I refuse to allow myself to be called a Zionist. I am an American. We in America refuse to set ourselves apart in a voluntary ghetto for the sake of old traditional observances. I have often used a figure of speech—it was brought to my mind by a meeting with rugmakers in Turkey—as follows: The Jew has been content in most lands, and down the ages, to be the fringe of the carpet, the loose end over which every foot has stumbled, where every heel has left its injuring impression on the disconnected individual strands. What the Jew should do is, to become a part of the pattern of the carpet itself; weave himself into the very warp and woof of the main fabric of humanity; and gain the strength which comes from a co-ordinated and orderly relation to the other strands of human society. His peculiar beauties (his peculiar talents), which in the fringe are soiled and hidden, take on new value when they become part of the main carpet; and they find their glory in lending to the pattern a unique splendor and a special lustre.

He Who Takes Chances

By Sophie Irene Loeb

A YOUNG woman who is down-hearted and miserable writes to me about the man whom she is to marry.

It seems he has always been the kind of man who "always takes a chance" and boasts about it all the time. She explains that he has taken to continuous gambling and does very little work.

Someone has advised her to "marry him and get him out of the bad habit." She is tormented with the problem at present whether to give him up or to take him "for better or for worse."

If there has to be this choice, I would suggest to give him up. This woman says she has tried every way to change his ways, but without success. Young people must realize, especially young women, that if a man will not try to please the girl he is to marry he will never do it afterward.

The one idea that is a total fallacy is that of marrying a man to reform him. It can't be done.

THERE is such a thing as breaking a man of some minor thing or two by persistent effort. But when a man continues selfishly to do just as he pleases and disregards all the wishes of his fiancee he is never going to be any better after he gets her. The test should come now instead of later.

If a man really wants a girl, he will go a long way toward trying to make himself what she wants him to be. If he doesn't make this effort, he deserves to lose her and the girl had better make up her mind that he is not for her.

In this particular case this man is gambling with a girl's love. He is taking his customary chance. If she permits him to do it, she is gone. There is little happiness for her.

He must travel a straight course and take no chances or she should give him up.

How many people in the world take so many chances? There are those who live on chance all their lives. It is a game—their game of life.

I ONCE knew a man whose family called him "the born gambler." Nothing had any attraction for him unless it was a hazard of some kind. Anything that looked straight and honest and required persistent effort and energy was never interesting to him. Any business he chose always was one that had to be put on the scales and about which there was little certainty.

This man was either up in the heights or down in the depths. He never was at peace with himself or the world. He played fast and loose with everything that came his way and was always on a high tension as to the outcome.

One day he took his last chance. He ran after a moving train and the odds were against him. So he lost his life on the game of chance.

The wise woman will never make a life partner of the man who doesn't know how to hold fast to Mother Earth, but who wants to go off at a tangent and hang on to something that is uncertain.

It is well enough to take a chance once in awhile, when your calculations are cool and deliberate. But he who forever delights in choosing risks is a great risk himself.

TWO RECIPES FOR FRUIT DESSERTS

THE wise housewife will serve fruit for dessert during the warm weather. It will eliminate the task of cooking or baking a dessert and will be a kindness to the digestive organs of the diners. The family may tire of it in its natural state and the appetite may crave prepared desserts, so she will occasionally make a change in its appearance on the table.

Watermelon.

Watermelon is the ideal summer fruit, and on a real hot day when one does not feel a bit like eating this will prove a stimulation to the appetite, and if served in a tempting form may be eaten with a relish. So on some hot day take a chilled watermelon, remove seeds and cut it into small triangles, squares, diamonds or any preferred shape. Arrange these in a glass dish and sprinkle sugar over each layer. Cover top with sugar and put in refrigerator until ready to serve.

Fruit Jelly.

Buy a package of some reliable jelly that is on the market in the form of powders. Mix according to directions given on package. The pineapple flavor is preferable for this purpose. When partly congealed add any fruit desired. Cut large fruit, such as peaches, etc., into small pieces. Some cooks also put in chopped nuts and maraschino cherries. Serve thoroughly chilled and covered with whipped cream.

FRUIT BISCUIT

TWO cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, one cup milk, one cup stewed fruit.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients, rub in the butter and add the milk. Turn out on a floured board and roll thin. Cut in circles, place the fruit in the center and pinch edges together. Bake in a hot oven for 12 minutes.

Stewed prunes, pitted, stewed apricots or raisins may be used. The fruit should be well drained, but whole. If desired, sprinkle the fruit with a dash of powdered sugar and cinnamon mixed together.

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

Maisie stepped on the throttle and the low car shot out of the club drive into the road to Sparborough.

The rain was coming hard now and the speedster was splashing mud over the hood and into their faces.

"There's a marshy place just below Bronson's," William warned her.

But she didn't. She ran off a yard or so as they passed the Bronson house.

"Look out," William cried.

It was too late.

"We're stuck," said Maisie Blaze.

William got down to see. They were stuck. One rear wheel had buried itself to the hub in the mud. The lower side of the engine pan was resting in the mud.

"I wonder if it would do any good to put on the chains?" William asked.

"I think we'd better wake up the Bronsons' chauffeur and get him to pull us out," Maisie said.

"Let's try the chains."

"It's an awfully dirty job."

"I'm game," said William.

The mud seemed bottomless, but William knocked a board off the Bronson's fence to rest the jack on and got the wheel up. He had to stand in mud up to his knees, to dig mud away with his hands, to wallow in mud, but he did it.

"Don't you suppose we could run out on a board?" Maisie asked.

William got another board, but after two tries they gave that up. Each time the car ran off the board he had to jack the wheel up again. He was beginning to tire and he was plastered with mud to the eyes. He finally got a chain on. The motor spun the wheel. William tried pushing from the rear, but still the wheel spun.

"There's nothing for it but to wake up the Bronsons' chauffeur," Maisie said. "It's nearly 5 o'clock now."

"Why don't we leave the car here and walk in?" William suggested. He did not like the idea of waking up the Bronsons' chauffeur. There was no reason to advertise their predicament. And the Bronsons would think it was a good story. William didn't want to be a good story.

"It's six miles," Maisie said. "I'd rather sleep in the car."

"Well," said William, "I'll go and see what I can do."

"I'll go with you," said Maisie Blaze.

"You stay there," said William. "I can do it."

"All right," William said. He took her hand and started up the road. It was sloppy going.

"Let's be very quiet," he whispered to Maisie as they entered the Bronsons' gate. "We don't want to wake up the whole family."

"I should say not," Maisie whispered.

In that moment the air was split by a fierce bark. Instinctively they leaned against each other. The bark was the signal for a volley of barks, barks that rose in one vast crashing crescendo.

"I hope none of them are loose," said Maisie Blaze.

"If any of them were, we wouldn't be here," said William grimly.

THEY stole toward the garage, over which the chauffeur had his quarters. The dogs continued to bark like mad things. William and Maisie crept forward like a pair of burglars. They had reached the chauffeur's door when the night suddenly blazed with light.

"It's us," wailed Maisie Blaze.

Bronson slowly lowered his gun.

"Why, it's Hurlbut and Maisie Blaizie," he said. "Wait a minute and I'll be down.

"Now we are in for it," said Maisie Blaze.

William made no comment. He knew it made little difference whether Margaret was at home or not if she was going to hear about it anyway.

Bronson beckoned to them from the kitchen door.

"What on earth are you two up to? Lord, but you're a sight, Hurlbut—what have you been doing?"

"We're stuck in the mud," William explained with dignity. "We were going to wake up your chauffeur and get him to pull us out."

"I'm sorry," Bronson apologized. "I'm awfully sorry. But do you know what time it is? It's nearly 5 o'clock. You'd better let me put you up for the night and you can get the car tomorrow."

"We'd like to get it out tonight," William said.

"Well," said Bronson, thoughtfully, "perhaps you'd better."

Bronson waked up the chauffeur and, at the earnest solicitation of William, returned himself to bed. The chauffeur was irritable. But he got out a big car and dragged the speedster out of the mud.

It was 6 o'clock when William got the mud out of his hair and turned in, and he had to get up at 7:30 in order to be at the office by 9. William never missed a day at the office.

In the morning William snatched time to put his dinner clothes and his overcoat and his hat and his shoes in a suitcase. He thought they were still good, but he intended to drop them at the cleaners on his way to the station; they were not the kind of things one leaves about the house.

He decided, in the interstices of a somewhat crowded day at the office, that it would be best to tell Margaret about his experience in coming home from the country club—immediately. He could describe it briefly and humorously and without too much insistence on the hour when he got home.

But when he was face to face with Margaret at dinner that evening he began to consider the possibility of not telling Margaret. He had neither the skill nor the control to give Margaret the true picture—to sketch in the casualness of the occasion, to show the utter fortuitousness of his misadventure, and to suggest firmly the triviality of the whole business.

Margaret's mind would be certain to seize upon the more outstanding facts, instead of on the significant ones. Margaret would note the hour at which they had awakened Mr. Bronson, the hour at which he had got to bed. Above all, Margaret would insist on the fact that he had been alone with Maisie Blaze. How could he make her see that time really had nothing to do with it? Or that his being with Maisie Blaze was the merest chance? It might have been any other woman. That is, well, it might conceivably have been some other woman.

He wished he could consult Maisie Blaze. He wanted to talk to Maisie Blaze. Half the fun of a thing like that was in talking it over afterward. But he couldn't have that half, unless he met Maisie by chance.

William arrived at the station the next morning five minutes early. He opened his morning paper, as he stood waiting on the platform. But he did not read. He was suddenly aware that one of three men standing in a group behind him had mentioned his name.

"There's Hurlbut," one of them said.

"Extraordinary chap," another remarked.

William was aware that they were talking in much louder tones than necessary, that indeed they were talking for his ears.

"Regular old mud turtle," said the third member of the group.

"Yes," said the first man, "they say he likes to get out and slosh in the mud."

"Just buries himself in it."

"Any time of the day or night."

"But he prefers it just before daylight."

William turned and faced them and they all burst into loud guffaws.

Margaret was strangely tense at dinner that night. William knew that she knew. But he did not broach the subject. He didn't know how much she knew.

AFTER dinner Margaret took him upstairs. She dragged a shirt from the laundry bag behind his closet door. It was the shirt. When he looked at it now William was astonished that one shirt could carry so much mud; it looked as if you had washed it in mud and then stood off and thrown mud at it, to see how much would stick.

William looked at Margaret.

And then Margaret burst into tears.

William essayed to comfort her. He put his arm around her shoulders to draw her to him. But she flung him off.

"No," said Margaret. "No."

William made another attempt.

"Don't touch me!" Margaret shrilled.

William let his arms drop to his sides. Helpless, he surveyed the wreckage he had wrought. He couldn't put his arms around her, she wouldn't let him. He couldn't speak; there was nothing to say.

"I'm going away from Sparborough," Margaret said distinctly between sobs. "I won't live in the same town with that woman, and, be-besides, our reputation is ruined."

"Nonsense," said William.

"E-e-everybody knows," said Margaret.

William discovered in the week that followed that everybody did know. Bronson had made a story out of it and told it everywhere. William met the story, or some reference to it, ever ytime he poked his head out of the house.

He wished he could talk to Maisie Blaze. But he couldn't. The first time he saw her yellow speedster waiting at the station he hesitated. But he didn't dare stop and talk to her. He hurried past with a nod and a lift of his hat.

A couple of days later he received an odd note from Maisie Blaze:

"Dear Bill:" (It began) "I judge from the way you avoid me you've had some explaining to do. Just like any married man—anything to keep out of trouble. I did some of it on purpose, Bill. But I'm sorry. I'm really sorry. Because I liked you, Bill. I liked you awfully and I wanted you to like me, Maisie."

William read the note and re-read it and then he put it in his inner vest pocket. He carried it there until it was quite worn out, did William Hurlbut, who had been one of the immensely respectable citizens of the immensely respectably suburb of Sparborough.

Proper Diet Habits and Reducing

By DORIS DOSCHER.
(Fifth Article.)

THE stout woman stands behind the defense that she is good natured, amiable and perfectly contented to waddle her well-padded body complacently through life. But if you catch her unawares she will be window shopping, with her eyes riveted on a frock marked size perfect "36," showing that the contentment is a camouflage and in reality she wishes with all her heart that she could wear that frock. But the disease obesity, like a cankerous worm, saps her real will power, and unless she makes the big effort to start reducing right now that frock size "36" remains a dream as far as she's concerned.

In a stout woman's mind, as soon as you mention diet as a means of reduction she immediately thinks you intend giving her a long list of foods she must not eat, and that she should exist only on some mushy vegetables that she thoroughly dislikes. But the real success of diet as a means of reduction requires an intelligent knowledge of the proper amount well balanced as to calories or nutritive values of foods.

If only we could all learn to recognize the moment when we have stepped over the boundary line from normal weight into the treacherous path of obesity. Since there are not two human beings on the face of the earth alike, there can be no set rule that I can give you. Of course, if you have a large bony frame you can stand a great deal more weight than your fine-boned sister.

Many times the claim is made that a tendency to fat is hereditary. I really believe that it is simply the cultivation of a taste for fat-forming foods in your youth, more than it is in any tendency handed down to you from your forefathers. It has often been said that we must cultivate a taste for olives before we really like them, and this is true of many other foods. Too often we get into the habit of repeating the same foods day after day without giving a thought to their effect upon us. This is particularly the fault of the housewife when she plans the meals. It is a hopeful sign that we as a nation are making great strides in arousing the housewife to the real responsibility she has when ordering the foods for her family.

I urge you to reduce not only because it is going to make you more comfortable during the hot weather and give you a more youthful appearance, but because it is going to add to your efficiency. Efficiency decreases, you know, in the exact proportion the excessive fat increases. You may not realize this now, but when you have gone on a little further with the exercises and the diet and find your body nimbling up and your system getting rid of its impurities and excessive fat, you will feel as if you moved into a new body.

With Seaside Rates So High Betty Can't Waste Time Getting Her Sunburn

Reducing Menu.

BREAKFAST.

A small dish of sliced peaches.

LUNCHEON.

One small baked potato with no butter.
Glass of buttermilk.
Bran gem.

DINNER.

Sliced tomatoes.
Asparagus.
Small portion of roast lamb, mint sauce.
Strawberry ice.

BAVARIAN CREAM

ONE envelope granulated gelatin, one-half cup of cold water, two cups milk, yolks of three eggs, one cup sugar, one pint whipped cream, one teaspoon vanilla. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Make a custard of milk, eggs and sugar; add soaked gelatin and when mixture thickens add cream and vanilla. Turn into mold, first dipped in hot water, and cut around edge with knife, turn out on dish and serve with whipped cream or meringue made from egg white.

THE HOUSEWIFE'S SCRAPBOOK

WHEN serving canteloupe or watermelon do not put cracked ice directly on the pulp, as this is detrimental to the flavor. It is best to serve these fruits cold from the refrigerator. Keep directly on ice, but do not allow the eatable portion of fruit to lie against the ice. If it must be served with ice, put a bed of cracked ice on plate and set the fruit with rind downward on it.

On very hot days milk is apt to change a bit before it can be used. It may be rendered fit for use again by stirring in a little baking soda.

One housekeeper always holds a needle between her lips while peeling onions and she maintains it keeps the tears in check and prevents the smarting of the eyes.

If you use warm water instead of cold when sprinkling, you will find the clothes easier to iron because the steam penetrates and the clothes are more evenly dampened.

If vegetables are set to cook in boiling water the flavor and nutritive properties are retained.

If there is any bacon left over use it as a seasoning for vegetable salad. Grate and sprinkle it over the salad just before serving. It makes a delicious addition to the salad.

Chipped Beef in Cream

FOUR tablespoons of butter; one tablespoon of flour; two cups of milk; two beaten eggs; one-half pound of chipped beef.

Melt the butter, rub in the flour, and gradually add the milk. Continue to rub smooth, and when well beated add the beef cut in small pieces. Cook for five minutes. Beat the eggs in the service bowl, and just before serving the beef mixture should be poured over the eggs very slowly. Serve with toast or crackers.

THE BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

By Thornton W. Burgess

What Peter Rabbit Did Do

You'll ne'er regret the kindly deed
That aids another in his need.
—Peter Rabbit.

LONGLEGS the Heron was getting nearer and nearer to Grandfather Frog and still Grandfather Frog sat on the big green lily pad close to the shore and led the Frog chorus. "Chug-arum, chug-arum, chug-arum, chug-arum," as if there wasn't such a thing as danger in all the Great World. I suppose Grandfather Frog thought he was singing. I suspect he would have called it that. But to Peter Rabbit, sitting on the bank, he was merely shouting in that great, deep, gruff voice of his. But whether singing or shouting, he was enjoying it, was Grandfather Frog.

Peter kept hoping that Grandfather Frog would turn his head and see Longlegs the Heron. But when he did stop it was only for a minute and then merely to listen to the other Frogs all around the Smiling Pool. Not one of them had such a great, deep voice as him. Grandfather Frog was very proud of that voice. Peter couldn't help thinking that it would have been better, much better, to have been less proud of his voice and more watchful for his safety.

The eyes of Longlegs the Heron gleamed with hunger. Grandfather Frog was so big that he would make a whole meal. There would be no need of any more hunting that night. Just a few more careful steps and he would be near enough to strike with that long, sharp bill. Then he would not only have that good dinner, but he would shettle an old grudge. You see, for three years he had been trying to catch Grandfather Frog, and for three years Grandfather Frog had been too smart for him. Moreover, Grandfather Frog had many, many times spoiled the hunting of Longlegs by giving warning to all the other Frogs.

"What ails Grandfather Frog?" muttered Peter to himself. "He must be getting careless or foolish in his old age. He ought to know better than to sit so near the shore. In two more steps Longlegs will be near enough to strike. I hate to spoil the hunting of Longlegs, but I can't bear to think of the Smiling Pool without Old Grandfather Frog. Why, nights I can hear that great, deep voice of his way over to the dear Old Briar-patch. Stupid! Why don't you turn around and see that long-legged hunter?"

This was addressed to Grandfather Frog, but Peter said it under his breath, so, of course, Grandfather Frog didn't hear it, and, of course, he didn't turn. Longlegs took one more careful step and Peter could see him draw his head back for the swift stroke that he would take with the next step. He knew just how that long neck would shoot out like a flash. If Grandfather Frog didn't jump in about two seconds it would be too late.

"Chug-arum, chug-arum, chug-arum," said Grandfather Frog. "Chug"—— He didn't finish. You see, just then Longlegs had started to take that last careful step and Peter Rabbit had thumped the ground with all his might. It was a very loud thump. Peter had meant it to be. It had startled Grandfather Frog so that he had cut short that chug-arum right in the middle and had dived headlong into the water without even looking to see what had frightened him. He learned when he was very young that this is always the safest thing to do. Safety for him lies down in the mud at the bottom of the Smiling Pool, and it is always best to seek safety first and inquire later what the danger is.

Uncommon Sense

BURIED TREASURE

INTERESTING, exciting, and probably profitless will be the expedition to discover the hidden treasure on Stevenson's Treasure Island.

Treasure hunts of that sort are full of thrills, and of hardship, and one in many thousand has succeeded.

The map that the modern treasure seekers are used to is the one that Stevenson saw, or heard of, before he wrote his romance.

He, too, could have organized an expedition. But Stevenson was of Scotch lineage, and he knew of a way of getting far more treasure out of the map than he ever could have dug from the island in its center.

Stevenson's was buried treasure, too, and not easy to come by. But by hard work he dug it out, and when success had crowned his efforts the treasure was not only his, but all the world's.

But questing for it is always uncertain—usually profitless.

Spend half the time seeking for the buried treasure that lies about you and within you, as Stevenson did, and there is far less uncertainty about the result, and far more value to the treasure that you find, for you can share it with the world and have as much left for yourself as you had when you revealed its hiding place.

There are few people who cannot find at least some small store of treasure by digging. There is nobody who can find real treasure without digging.

If it lies within you to do some great and important work, the digging is all the more necessary.

The highly talented musician has to perform prodigies of labor before he can reveal his treasure to the world.

The literary genius cannot develop his particular treasure till he has read and considerd and written—spending hours of toil to bring wealth that is within him to the light of day.

You perhaps may not be a genius or even a person of talent. But somewhere there is a treasure that you can make your own by patient digging, persistent effort and by a genuine desire to be something more than a mere creature of circumstances. Dig and dig hard, and the treasure will be yours.

Waste time and energy seeking for treasure that someone else has buried and you will finish as most treasure hunters do, a forgotten outcast on some desolate and lonely shore.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE OWL.

The thrush and the robin say: "How-de-yah-do?"
If they happen to meet on a limb;
The cat-bird gives voice to a sociable, "Mew!"
When the wren chirps, "Good Morning!" to him.
But when all their chatter grows suddenly still
When the blue-birds don't utter a sound,
And every one's dreadfully distant and chill
You know that the owl is around.
For none of them ever say a kind word
To a creature they know for a bad little bird

He lives all alone in a hole in an oak
And sits there the weary day through,
Looking out now and then from his window to croak
A low little, slow little, "Whoo."
But when it is dark, and the birds are at rest,
He can see, just as if it was day,
And flutters about till he finds a nice nest
And he steals the small nestlings away.
He steals them and eats them, the bad little thing,
Then he hurries away, on a loud whirring wing.

But old Mr. Kingbird, he sits on a bough
And the owl finds himself in a pretty bad row
If he happens to go to his place;
For the kingbird is swift, and the kingbird is strong;
He is little, but brave is his heart,
And he watches and waits, till the owl comes along
Then he tweaks him and tears him apart,
While in from the darkness the other birds flit
And none of them ever is sorry, one bit!

What They "'Awked."

W. Reid Dick, the famous sculptor, tells an amusing story of a cockney couple on a visit to the Royal Academy.

"Rather," agreed 'Arriet. "But wot are they 'awking?"
